COLLECTION CALLED WORLD'S GREATEST

Director of Detroit Museum Asserts It Is Best Since That of Cardinal Richelieu.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Mellon tax hearing, in which the Government is attempting to collect more than $2,000,000 in tax and penalties on the 1931 income of the former Secretary of the Treasury, entered a new phase here today, dealing in a realm of art as far removed from ordinary understanding as the complex analysis of Mellon's financial empire that has come earlier.

Mellon has recounted a parade of art experts who will testify to the fabulous value of the pictures which he gave to the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Foundation and on which the claims tax exemption. The Government charges the foundation is merely a device to avoid, if not evade, income tax payments.

The hearings today began with a flare of publicity that was in marked contrast to the quiet, circumspect nature of the 12 weeks of hearings in Pittsburgh. Attorneys of the Bureau of Internal Revenue had to prevent photographers from taking pictures of Mellon, Frank J. Hogan and Lord Duveen, noted art dealer. Hogan is Mellon's attorney. For a few minutes there was a pitched battle in the corridor outside the hearing room. But the attendants finally allowed the photographers to take the picture they wanted. Mellon blinks in the glare of battery of flash lamps.

Superior to Metropolitan.

The first witness was Dr. William R. Valentiner, director of the Detroit Art Institute, and a well-known expert on various phases of art.

No collection of such importance has been assembled in my lifetime. I believe it is superior to the collection in the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

But the real interest of the hearing centered upon Lord Duveen who has built up a large fortune in course of his 50 years as an art dealer. He has sold to American millionaires most of the pictures in their private collections.

No other such collection since that of Cardinal Richelieu and the Duke of Orleans has been put together. Dr. Valentiner testified.

No collection of such importance has been assembled in my lifetime. I believe it is superior to the collection in the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

DIME CHAIN LOSS $314 IF KEPT UP TO FINAL LIMIT

Toronto Mathematician Figures Result but Suggests Objections.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. TORONTO, Ontario, May 9.—A. B. Chambers, Toronto mathematician, calculated today that a participant in a dime chain letter scheme must pay out $1876 to get back $1562 if the chain remains unbroken.

He said: "Where are 15,625 persons who send dimes to me going to get the 15,625 dimes which are supposed to go to them? They will have to come from 244,240,625 persons—more men, women and children than live in Canada, the United States, Newfoundland, Mexico and Alaska."

In theory, he said, the scheme could operate forever if every person in North America had $1562.50 in dimes and $313.50 to buy enough two-cent stamps to keep the $1562.50 circulating.

"If the chain kept going infinity, everyone in it some time would find he had received $1562.50 and spent $1562.50 to get it. He would also have spent $313.50 in postage stamps, a dead loss, or a total of $1876."

MISSOURI LIQUOR CONTROL BILL SIGNED

Law in Effect at Once—Governor Acts on Last Day Allowed.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—Gov. Park signed the liquor control bill today. The law goes into effect immediately as of the bill contains an emergency clause. Today is the last day the Governor had to act on the bill.

The bill was the subject of much controversy between the House and the Senate, but was finally passed by both houses about three weeks ago, after the differences between the two bodies had been worked out by joint conference committees.

It is known that the Governor objected to a provision of the bill, which reduces the annual tax on 50 cent beer from $1 a barrel to 62 cents, but he finally approved the measure in order to obtain the provisions for better enforcement of the liquor laws which the bill provides. There had been reports that the Governor might veto the bill because of his objection to the reduction in the tax on beer.

In general, the bill provides for a tightening of the enforcement laws by restoring the search and seizure provisions of the old State home dry law, in connection with arrests for violations. There are no changes in the present license fees for hard liquor, which are $300 a year for the State, and up to $300 a year for the various counties. Cities may charge up to one and one-half the amount of the State license for local licenses.

The 3.2 per cent beer bill was signed by the Governor Monday and is now in effect.

Officers Say She Confessed Threatening Oil Man's Children and Was Alone in Plot.

TULSA, Ok., May 9.—Opal Virginia Beard, 16-year-old school girl, was arrested by Department of Justice agents today when she picked up a dummy package placed where an extortion note had directed Homer F. Wilcox, wealthy oil man, to leave $2000. C. E. Baley, United States District Attorney, announced. She was charged with using the mails in an attempt to extort money and released on $2000 bond.

Bailey said the girl confessed she wrote and mailed the note which threatened death to the Wilcox children unless the money was paid. "I got the idea from reading about other extortion letters," Bailey quoted the girl, "and no one else was involved."

Mellon Listens Intently.

Mellon himself followed the testimony of Duveen and Valentiner with the closest interest, stroking his chin nervously with one slender finger. Now and then he leaned forward to catch the words that came from the witness stand.

Robert H. Jackson, chief of Government counsel, interrupted Duveen to say the Mellon pictures was not the only evidence since the Government had the pictures have not been used for educational or charitable purposes.

It was shown in the course of the hearing in Pittsburgh that the pictures are all hanging on the walls of the Mellon apartment, sealed in a private bag in the Corcoran Art Gallery.

Mr. Mellon acquired from me a good part of his collection," Duveen said with pride when asked if he had sold the pictures.

The Copper Madonna, by Raphael, which is one of the five pictures on which Mellon claims his exemption, he brought from the Soviet out of the Hermitage Galley in Leningrad, Russia, for $100,000. Duveen testified. He sold the Mellon about a year after acquiring it for $336,000.

"A Very Low Price."

"I thought it was a very low price," Duveen said in answer to Roger's questioning. "I thought it was too low. But Mr. Mellon thought it was a very high price. On day after lunch I gave way."

Lord Duveen said, "I acquire things and then I resell them."

Raphael's pride in his pre-eminent position in the art world was plain throughout all his testimony. He said that he paid $5,000,000 to the Soviet for nine paintings out

BANK ROBBERS GET $15,000

15 Persons Cowed in Holdup at Newburg, N. Y.

By the Associated Press. NEWBURG, N. Y., May 9.—Five robbers, armed with a machine gun, held up a branch bank today and fled toward Pennsylvania in a small automobile with about $15,000 cash. Fifteen persons in the Broadway branch of the Highland Quasnick National Bank & Trust Co. were threatened by the robbers during the holdup. No shots were fired. Citizens pursued the robbers in automobiles, but were outdistanced.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 9.—Three armed men held up the branch bank of the Worcester County Institute for Savings at 9:30 a. m. today and escaped in an automobile with $14,400. The bank is three miles north of the city proper.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., SPREADS ITS CHAIN CRAZE IN OZARKS

Missouri - Type Cheater Proof Dollar Letters Taken Up Strong in Lebanon, Bolivar, Cabool.

NOTHING LIKE IT SINCE DAYS OF '61

"Exchanges" Still Doing Good Business in Town of Origin but Prospects Are Harder to Find.

By CARLOS F. HURD, Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 9.—Not since the rebels rode into town in '61 has anything taken hold of Springfield like the guaranteed chain letter idea, now in its third day and still going strong. Denver may have started chain letters and St. Louis and Kansas City may have carried along the idea, on the basis of a dime down and a lot of faith in human nature, but it took Springfield to do the thing in a big way, with nothing less than $1, and nothing left to chance and with regular "exchanges" to handle the business.

Dimin letters, with nothing to show that their senders actually remitted a dime to anyone, are child's play to the host of Springfield field investors who pay their dollars only when they see a notary's seal attesting the fact that the higher-ups on the list have made their contribution. After that it is a job of salesmanship, with evanescing trimmings.

With the local saturation point in view, Springfield men and women in selling chain positions yesterday called up their friends in surrounding Ozark communities, and urged them to get in on the opportunity to richen. The calls went to Bolivar and Cabool, to Billings and Lake Taneycomo. Some came, but others gathered the details of the idea and started up in their home towns. Last night, Lebanon, 60 miles east of Springfield, and Aurora, 40 miles west, had exchanges running. Lebanon, which has 3000 inhabitants, reported that a supply of 10,000 printed and typewritten blanks had been nearly used up.

Some Exchanges Close.

Ten exchanges were in operation yesterday and until late last night. Most of them were open today, and did a good business, but were not the seething centers of interest that they were yesterday, when they sent excited men and women running around the public square in circles.

Near the square, which is the main business center, more persons were outside the exchanges, trying to interest new prospects, than were giving their names and their paper money to the notaries and clowns

CENSORSHIP ON TALKS
OVER STATE RADIO

Republican House Member Barred From Broadcasting on WOS.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—A censorship of speeches broadcast from Station WOS, the State-owned radio station at the capitol, has been established with the State Highway Patrol in the role of censor. It was learned today when the Rev. H. S. Rainwater, Republican member of the House from Polk County, was barred from making a scheduled 15-minute radio address because he had not furnished an advance manuscript of his speech.

Representative Rainwater was the first prospective speaker against whom the new rule, just brought to light, was enforced. More than 50 House members have made speeches over WOS during the present session of the Legislature, without being required to furnish advance manuscripts or to indicate in advance the nature of their speeches.

The censorship has been established since a so-called "unfortunate" a week ago, when Dr. J. A. Gray, Republican House member from Atchison County, was "cut off the air" by Station WOS in the midst of a fierce denunciation of Boss Pendergast's Democratic machine in Kansas City and its growing influence over State governmental affairs.

Station Says Tube Burned Out. Gray was cut off after six minutes of a scheduled 15-minute broadcast. Station WOS employees explained a tube had burned out. Later, Gray was offered an opportunity by Pemberton Gordon, station director, to complete his speech at a later date, or to have another full 15 minutes. So far he has not been scheduled on the station program. The new rule, now in effect, would apply to him if he asks to appear.

Rainwater, who drove 125 miles this morning from his home in Bolivar to make the broadcast, said that when he arranged for the time with Gordon recently, the latter suggested Rainwater submit a copy of the speech in advance, at least a day before the date of the broadcast. Rainwater said he brought his manuscript with him and offered it to Gordon when he appeared at the station this morning, 30 minutes before the time he was to go on the program.

Gordon declined to accept it and ruled that Rainwater could not appear, under the circumstances. He said Rainwater might have some time at a later date, if he complied with the rule.

Rained Democrats' Ire. Rainwater, serving his first term in the House, has aroused the ire of some of the Democratic majority with caustic comments about Democrats from time to time, in House debate, and with news letters on legislative proceedings, written weekly to Republican newspapers in his home county.

Rainwater said the speech he had prepared contained no political discussion, and was in effect, a sermon, urging return to spiritual fundamentals, instead of stressing material things.

Station WOS is under the supervision of the State Highway Patrol, and furnishes general programs when not in use for patrol broadcasts. The patrol, in turn, is under the supervision of the State Highway Commission, appointed by the Governor.

Gordon said he put the rule in effect himself. He said "some persons high in the administration" had suggested such a rule, but would not name them, and declared the rule was his idea.

AUTO WORKERS REJECT COMPANY OFFER AT TOLEDO

Vote 1251 to 605 to Continue Chevrolet Strike Which Has Closed Plants in Other Cities.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., May 9.—Federal mediators renewed their efforts to settle the strike at the Chevrolet Motor Co. plant here today following rejection of a company settlement proposal by the workers yesterday.

The automobile workers voted 1251 to 605 to continue the strike. The company employed about 2300 workers when the strike began.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant to Secretary of Labor Perkins, said he intended to confer with General Motors executives in another attempt to settle the differences.

The strike was called more than two weeks ago. The company immediately closed its plant, cutting off the supply of Chevrolet transmissions to General Motors assembly plants. Since then nearly 20 automobile plants have been closed by the management or by strikes, resulting in idleness for 33,000 workers in several states.

Union Eager to Negotiate.

Fred Schwake, business agent of the United Automobile Workers Federal Union, said the strikers were "eager to open negotiations as soon as possible."

"We have called General Motors bluff and proved to the public that the men expressed their wishes," he said.

Fred Seiger, president of the Independent Workers' Society, which asked for the vote, and nine other members of the group were stoned last night as they were leaving the polling place. Police halted the outbreak, but no arrests were made. No one was injured.

A. F. of L. Interpretation.

Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer for the automobile industry, had urged union men to turn down the company proposals which included a 5 per cent wage increase and wage readjustments up to 10 per cent.

Dillon said today that in his judgment "the result of this poll makes it obligatory upon the management of General Motors to adjust themselves immediately to a changed order by proceeding forthwith in negotiating directly with the accredited representatives of the American Federation of Labor in an effort to conclude and execute a mutually satisfactory agreement."

The union workers had demanded a wage increase of 5 cents an hour, a minimum of 70 cents an hour, a five-day week and a signed contract.

TWA Attorney's Contentions.

Davis contended landing lights would not be visible from the cabin unless reflected from the ground and said Kaplan's report that he saw a farmhouse before he landed indicated the lights were on.

The jury was referred to testimony of Nolan and Harvey Rhodes, farmers both of whom plane had on two white, bright lights which flew past their home two miles from the scene of the crash. This statement was qualified, however, by Harvey Rhodes' admission that perhaps they were running lights.

"Federal 'investigators'" Davis said, "will learn more than we will ever be able to find out."

STATE SENATE COMMITTEE
APPROVES PRISON GOODS BILL

If Passed, Measure Will Go Back to House for Concurrence in Amendments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—The bill to prohibit the sale of penitentiary-made goods in the open market in Missouri was approved last night by the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence. If passed by the Senate, it will be returned to the House for concurrence in several committee amendments, most of them of a corrective nature.

The Senate committee added a section which would prohibit the State penitentiary from competing in the open market with private printing concerns.

The bill, if passed and approved by the Government, would become effective two years after its enactment. Its provisions apply to products of penitentiaries in other states as well as in Missouri, but the sale of prison-made goods to the various State Departments and institutions would be permitted.

The measure was sponsored by Representative Dale of Richmond and had the support of organized labor. It is modeled after the Hawley-Cosper Act passed by Congress several years ago.

COLORADO EJECTS MEXICANS
ON WAY TO BEET FIELDS

Governor Says 32 Had Only $3 and Would Have Become Public Chargers.

TRINIDAD, Colo., May 9.—Thirty-two Mexican men, women and children who attempted to reach the Northern Colorado sugar beet fields from Texas were ejected from Colorado today in Gov. Johnston's campaign to bar aliens from this state.

The Mexicans, traveling in a truck, were escorted by officers to the New Mexico State line and were told to "keep on traveling" southward. At Denver the Governor said Trinidad officers had found the men had only $3 in cash and the truck.

"They would have become charges of the State almost immediately after their arrival," the Governor said.

The manager of a chain grocery had received $400 by last evening and John Matthews, butcher in the same store, $300. They and others looked confidently for a "grand" or even several g's, when the full returns are in.

The highest rate charged by the regular exchanges was $5 at the Post of Gold chain. This enterprise zoomed in popularity for a time, when it was announced that the investors would get his money back at once. "You pay $5 to get in," the announcement said, "then sell two copies for $5 each. Five dollars goes on and you keep $5."

A put-and-take chain, on a $2 basis, was operated in much the same way. Some men on Commercial street last night started a $10 chain on a similar plan and reported a good business.

Notaries and lawyers not too busy to take acknowledgements were big winners, aside from the investments which most of them made of necessity, if not from choice.

Typewriter rentals jumped from $2.50 a week to the same price per day. Stenographers were taken from offices and business and worked far beyond normal hours.

The dime chain has been forgotten, except for letters received by Springfield persons from St. Louis and other places where people still give their time to such trifles. Arrival of such a letter, a Springfield man's mail, is the occasion for a chorus of disdainful sniffs.

"Cream of the Crop," the Kerr chain blanks were headed. "Fool-proof, cheater-proof." This chain was started to bring prosperity to all of us." Ten names appeared in the list, and each person joining the chain had to call at Kerr's exchange, put $5 in a letter attested by a notary, who got 20 cents for this service.

The customer then received his two blanks, with the notary's seal to their validity, and had the job of finding two persons to accompany him back to the exchange, send out $5 and start out after their two customers each.

The "take," which buyers expect to be paid, is $2072, or the $5 investment multiplied by 1024, which is the number 2 raised to the tenth power.

More and Still More Investors.

The customer's job did not end when he sold his two prospects. It was his job to see that his own name moved from the bottom to the top of the list, before the inevitable saturation of the market.

He had to help his customers, and their customers, to find more investors.

Men and women were dragged from stores and offices, being told that it would take only a few minutes, and then stayed out to join the throngs that solicited friends and strangers. Telephone calls and motorized visitations took many from their homes. College students were lured from campuses, and policemen from their beats.

Today, with new buyers harder to find, and with wet weather aiding in a realistic view, there were fewer frenzied sellers on the streets and in building entrances. But some said it was too soon to conclude that there was no new money in sight.

Today's mail told the story of returns to those who have been long enough on sufficiently successful lists. Letters handled by curious office associates and torn open secretly by addressees, yielded the $3, $2 or $1 contributions which had been sent under notarial certificate.

Gordon said he put the rule in effect himself. He said "some persons high in the administration" had suggested such a rule, but would not name them, and declared the rule was his idea.

One Man's Winnings $700.

Earl Goodwin, Commercial street pool hall proprietor, was one of the first to count his winnings in three figures. Last night he figured his receipts at $700. Guy Harpool,

NEW VARIATIONS OF SEND-A-DIME
FAD TRIED IN CITY

779,000 First-Class Letters Handled by Postoffice Yesterday, 10,000 Increase Over Tuesday.

The flood of "send-a-dime" chain letters continued unabated in the St. Louis mails today while new variations of the scheme, some depending on personal distribution of the appeals, made their appearance in office buildings.

Fascinating variations of the fad developed also. One chain which reached the mail urged the sending of an old sock. The addresses on one such letter received by a St. Louisian included persons in Montana, Utah, California and Texas.

Not discouraged by talk of arrests and prosecution under the lottery laws, followers of the fad helped to swell the total of first-class mail cancellations at the St. Louis Postoffice to 779,000 in the 24 hours ended last midnight. This was 10,100 more than the total for Tuesday, and 31,000 more than on a corresponding day of last month.

Postmaster Jackson said his force had been adjusted to handle the increased volume and that regular mail could now go through on schedule. Substitute clerks were called into service and the total of hours worked by substitutes yesterday was 1035, about 700 more than usual. Four extra collection trucks were placed in service today, in addition to the six added yesterday.

Many Apply for Jobs.

Many who worked as substitutes during the Christmas rush have applied for temporary jobs. Jackson said, but there was no opportunity for them as the needed workers were drawn from the regular substitute force.

The chain mail letters he added, have not been nearly so burdensome as the Christmas mail, which usually averages about 2,000,000 pieces a day in the six days preceding Christmas.

Many employers have instructed their workers not to write chain letters during business hours and not to use office stationery for that purpose. These instructions, apparently, have been effective, as there has been only an insignificant increase in the volume of "metered" mail canceled through machines with which many business firms are equipped.

Postal Receipts Increase.

Postal receipts in the first eight days of May totaled $273,371, an increase of about 10 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Postoffice Swamped With Dime Letters

Mail badly addressed has been running since Monday at about 4000 pieces a day. A little less than half of such mail can be traced and delivered. Fifty-seven of the "dead" letters in the first three days of this week contained money in amounts ranging from 10 cents to $1, and in the first hour this morning 17 letters with money in them were classed as "dead."

Chief Postoffice Inspector Noah, who was out of the city when the tide of chain letters rose in St. Louis, today gave it as his opinion that everyone who placed a chain letter in the mail was guilty of fraud, even though unintentionally. As a practical matter, he said, it would be impossible for his department to discover all such violations, disregarding the added difficulties of instituting prosecution. Noah said, however, that the inspectors would be alert to detect chain letters which were outright frauds, and would make every effort to prosecute in such instances.

Chain messages have also been sent by telegraph, and telephone calls have increased by about 8 per cent. Senders of the chain letters in some cases have telephoned friends in advance to make sure that they will not break the chain if a letter is sent to them.

JUDGE DICKMANN, 'TIRED

BOARD PROPOSES CITY SALARY CUTS TO TRIM BUDGET

Estimate Group Adopts Mayor's Suggestion for Reductions From 2 to 5
Pct. to Meet Deficit.

CUT IN POLICE PAY ALSO IS URGED

Plan Offered as Substitute for That of Ways and Means Committee Aimed at Dickmann.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, on motion of Mayor Dickmann, today proposed that salaries of city employees receiving more than $125 a month be reduced five per cent and that salaries less than $125 be cut two per cent in order to reduce the budget for the new fiscal year.

The Mayor also suggested that the Board of Police Commissioners carry out such cuts in the Police Department over which the city has no direct control and that State officers, including Judges and court employees, voluntarily accept the same reduction.

While Budget Director Meyer said he could not determine immediately what saving would be made by such a step it was thought it would be between $250,000 and $300,000. A similar salary cut of 10 per cent for relief purposes, which was restored a year ago, produced about $600,000 a year.

Deficit Is $700,000.

Reduced the budget as submitted by the Board of Estimate a deficit of about $700,000 was anticipated at the end of the fiscal year in April, 1936, unless a payment from the State was received to reimburse the city for its care of the insane. It received, this payment would virtually eliminate any deficit. Additional funds also are sought by the Board of Children's Guardians, which has stated that 405 children under its care would have to be dropped from the rolls unless its appropriation was increased by $50,000.

Mayor Dickmann's motion, approved by Comptroller Nolte and President Mason of the Board of Aldermen, the other members of the Board of Estimate, was offered as a counter proposal to that of the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Aldermen which has the budget under consideration and which hoped to obtain passage of the budget bill today.

The committee proposed to cut appropriations for offices held by some of the Mayor's close friends and increase allocations to offices conducted by those who had not been friendly to the Dickmann administration.

One of the proposals was that the office of Deputy Assessor in the special tax department be eliminated. This position, paying $2700 a year, is held by Wynn W. Rafferty, liaison officer between the Mayor and the Efficiency Board, an important cog in the patronage machine.

The committee proposal, it was said, would provide $48,820 for employment of Park Department laborers who have been laid off due to lack of funds, and supply the necessary amounts for the Board of Children's Guardians.

Appropriation Cuts Suggested.

Reduced appropriations advocated by the Ways and Means Committee were: Efficiency Board, $5000; License Collector, Renick's office, $6000; Supply Commissioner Roach's office, $2000; Board of Public Service, $7500; Building Commissioners office, $4000; Excise Commissioners office, $1000; Workhouse, $2000.

Elimination of three jobs in the office of the Director of Streets and Sewers, amounting to $6120, was suggested and the appropriation for traffic signs was reduced from $30,000 to $20,000.

Reduction of Dept. of English was allowed five stenographers at $107 a month and a comparer at $140 under the committee proposal. Sheriff Madden, who, likewise, has been found aligned against Mayor Dickmann on occasions, was given a $14,000 appropriation for special Deputy Sheriffs instead of $7500. It was suggested that the salary of Sheriff Master Byrne be increased from $17 to $225 a month and that Dr. A. P. Bowlette, medical director of City Hospital receive $250 instead of $200 a month.

Under the charter, the Board of Aldermen cannot increase appropriations but it is empowered to make cuts.

The Board of Estimate declined to approve Alderman Lietchen's proposal for a night police court which would have required an appropriation of about $10,000. Lietchen's resolution to reduce the city tax rate by 10 cents on the $100 valuation also failed of approval.

12 RUSSIAN AGENTS EXILED

Business Men Ordered From Moscow for Breaking Soviet Rule.

MOSCOW, May 9.—Twelve Moscow representatives of provincial lumbering firms were exiled to the White Sea today for alleged anti-Soviet activities. Three were prohibited from living in Moscow.

The government recently ordered financial firms to abandon the practice of maintaining business agents in the Soviet capital.

Art Dealer With Mellon at Hearing

public art gallery. This talk took place in New York "a few months" ago, Duveen said.

Jackson, over Hogan's objection, returned to Duveen his income-tax return for 1930 and 1931, showing a gross business of $5,532,000 in the former year and of $725,000 in the latter year in order to prove that Duveen's business had suffered heavily as a result of the depression. But Duveen said he knew nothing about the financial details of his business, and declined to answer any questions concerning his income.

"You had best call my accountant, and he can tell you that sort of thing," Duveen said.

"You must recall taking back paintings you had once sold to the value of $2,300,000," Jackson said.

"I don't recall," Duveen answered. "I shouldn't recall, you know."

On Hogan's objection, Van Fosson overruled Jackson's request to enter the income-tax returns of Duveen Brothers in the record.

Does Not Bother About Profits.

"Perhaps you don't realize," said Duveen, as though he would reprove Hogan, "that there are only three small Van Eycks in America. And they cannot compare with Mr. Mellon's Van Eyck."

This was a reference to a masterpiece by a Flemish painter, Jan Van Eyck, for which Mellon in 1931 paid a million dollars.

"That one painting would make a collector famous," Duveen said.

The five pictures have taken the heart out of the Hermitage collection, Duveen testified. "The Hermitage has really gone to pieces. I don't see how a nation could sell such pictures," he said.

Jackson Breaks In.

Jackson interrupted at this point to say that the value of those pictures as the nucleus of a gallery was irrelevant, since Mellon had no plans or commitments for a public art museum.

"My opponent takes the view," said Hogan, annoyed by this interruption, "that a great art gallery can be established overnight, strung up somewhere. I want this great expert to tell us how important these pictures would be in a public gallery."

Ernest H. Van Fosson sustained Jackson's objection, holding that, while the issue was whether or not Mellon had really made a gift of the six, the testimony of Duveen had little or no bearing on it.

Duven rolled off his tongue the names of the great painters of every age: Rembrandt, Pieter Brueghel, Vermeer, Gainsborough, El Greco, and Mellon in his collection.

About Russian Deal.

"This collection is the finest collection in the universe," Duveen said. "No such collection has been put together in my time."

"Did you know that Mr. Mellon was also negotiating with the Russians?" Jackson asked on cross-examination.

"Yes, I knew he had bought a Van Eyck from them," Duveen answered. "And you didn't bid on the Van Eyck?"

"I never believed that it was really for sale," the witness answered. "I didn't believe they would sell it."

"I came to know the Russians much better later on," Duveen said, "lunching and dining with them and all that sort of thing. They told me that if it became known that the painting had been sold to a private dealer and that he had made a large profit on them, their heads would go off."

Duveen testified that Mellon talked to him about plans for a

ILLINOIS JOBLESS BEGIN MARCH ON STATE CAPITOL

Workers' Alliance An-nounces Protesters Will Remain Until Relief Sta-tions Reopen.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 9.—Members of the Illinois Workers' Alliance, called to Springfield for a State-wide protest against the closing of relief stations, began congregating near the Statehouse today.

Nearly 200 men were at the site of the old arsenal, across the street from the Statehouse, and truck loads of others were reported to be coming into the city.

Edward C. Morgan of Staunton, State president of the Illinois Workers' Alliance, and Gerry Allard of Springfield, were in charge of the marchers. They said the men would camp in Springfield until all relief stations were reopened.

Delegations from Wilsonville, Savoyerville, Auburn, Riverton and other mining towns were reported to be among the first to arrive. Allard said other delegations were coming from Bloomington, Clinton and Chicago by trucks, freight trains and on foot.

Acting Superintendent L. M. Taylor of the State highway police said the men would not be permitted to enter the Statehouse grounds. Captain E. Nuess, chief of the Springfield police, called Allard and other leaders into a conference.

At noon police forced the crowd to leave the intersection, where traffic is heavy. The marchers paraded to Reservoir Park, in the northeast section of town, to establish a camp. The men said 21 cities were represented. About two dozen State and city policemen were on hand while speeches were made, asking that the unemployed be fed.

Legislature Deadlocked.

The deadlock in the Legislature continued. The House, for the third time, refused last night to give a two-thirds emergency majority to the relief financing bills, increasing the sales tax to 10 per cent. Meanwhile, the 100 counties have exhausted funds received from the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

Gov. Horner announced a fourth effort would be made next Tuesday to pass the bills. He went to Chicago at noon to confer with Democratic and relief officials there.

A total of 102 votes, or two-thirds, was needed to pass the sales tax increase with the emergency clause, making it effective on the signature of Gov. Horner, but before the relief call was completed it became apparent that the number could not be obtained. The call was suspended—for the second time within a week, in order to keep the bill alive. An unofficial ballot showed 89 votes for the measure and 57 against.

Whether leaders again will attempt to pass the bill with its emergency clause or try to enact it with this clause eliminated, is uncertain. Seventy-seven votes are needed to pass the bill without the emergency clause, but it would not become effective until July 1.

Minority Statement.

After the vote yesterday, Minority Leader L. M. Green of Rockford issued a statement saying:

"The opponents of an increased sales tax are not opposed to raising the amounts needed for well administered relief, we are opposed to the method adopted to raise the funds. We condemn the failure of the State administration to conserve the income of the State for the last two years, so that increased taxation might be avoided."

"The present situation and apparent crisis has been deliberately brought about by the Democratic administration in charge of relief at Washington in collusion with the Democratic administration in this State for the purpose of forcing the passage of the sales tax increase bill."

With the House tied up by the Republican filibuster, the Legislature today adjourned to Tuesday. Dilatory motions, frequent speeches and rollcalls at every opportunity occupied a boisterous session, which was adjourned after an hour and 20 minutes.

WOMAN FRIEND AND HIS BROTHER R. A. HUBER HEIRS

Bulk of Property in Trust for Eugene Huber and Miss Amy Allen, Under His Will.

The bulk of the estate of Rudolph A. Huber, vice-president and treasurer of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., was held in trust for his brother, Eugene, a resident of Los Angeles, and a friend, Miss Amy Allen, in his will, filed in Probate Court today.

After the death of both beneficiaries of the trust fund, the principal of the estate, less $30,000 in specific bequests to friends, relatives and employees of the brewery, is to be divided among four charities, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish.

Specific bequests in the will, to be paid prior to establishment of the trust fund, were: $10,000 to Eugene Huber, who also is to get Mr. Huber's watch and some personal effects; $5,000 to Miss Allen, who is also to get Mr. Huber's automobile and other personal effects, including household furniture; $5000 to Rebecca O'Brien, Mr. Huber's secretary; $2000 to Henry Heimbacher, his chief clerk; $2000 to Winfield Usher, whose mother was said to have been a close friend of Mr. Huber's mother; $1000 to Werner Dieckmann, a cousin; $1000 each to Pauline Huber Fisher and Bertha Sanchez, nieces, and $3000 to Elizabeth Cassilly, housekeeper of Mr. Huber's apartment at 3438 Russell boulevard.

The Manufacturers' Bank & Trust Co. of which Mr. Huber was a director, was designated trustee of the fund to be made up from the remainder of the estate. It was provided that Eugene Huber and Miss Allen should share equally in its income, and that if one died, the other would get all the income.

At the death of the second of the beneficiaries of the trust fund, according to the will, the principal of the trust estate is to be divided equally among the St. Louis Altenheim, German Protestant Orphanage, Home on St. Charles road, Little Sisters of the Poor, and Jewish Orphans' Home.

Miss Allen resides at 4515 Maryland avenue and is employed as a secretary by the Merchant-Commissioners' Bank & Trust Co.

She said today that she and Mr. Huber had been friends for many years.

Mr. Huber, 57 years old, and a bachelor, died May 1 in St. Luke's Hospital. He was a native of Germany and entered the employ of Anheuser-Busch at 14, as a guide. He had been a vice-president and treasurer for 15 years.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE; DOORS SHUT, MOTOR RUNNING

William Hoffman, Butcher, in Habit of Driving Truck to Shop.

William Hoffman, 47 years old, a butcher, was found dead today in a delivery truck in a garage at his home, 601 Kaysler avenue, Luxembourg. The motor of the truck was running and the garage doors closed.

His son, Wilbur, 20, said his father customarily arose about 6 a.m. to open his shop at 1022 Koenig avenue, driving there in the truck. The body was found by the son, who went into the garage about 9 o'clock.

Whether leaders again will attempt to pass the bill with its emergency clause or try to enact it with this clause eliminated, is uncertain. Seventy-seven votes are needed to pass the bill without the emergency clause, but it would not become effective until July 1.

CON P. CURRAN LEAVES ESTATE OF $714,000

Seven Children Share $500, 000 in Personal Property,
$214,000 in Insurance.

Disposing of an estate estimated to be worth more than $500,000, exclusive of $214,000 in life insurance, the will of Con P. Curran, founder of the Con P. Curran Printing Co., who died Friday, was filed in Probate Court at Clayton today.

The will, made June 14, 1920, bequeathed all of his real estate in equal shares to his three sons and four daughters and divided the $214,000 in insurance equally among them. It provided that the personal property was to be divided equally among the other six children. Mrs. Curran's husband, now in the printing business for himself, formerly was general manager of the Con P. Curran Printing Co.

The other children are: Con P. Curran Jr., 5968 Gates avenue; John F. Curran, Normandy; Eugene Philip Curran, 527 Clara avenue; Mrs. F. W. Corley, 4303 McPherson avenue, and ordered this tenth dividend equally among the other six children. Mrs. Corley's husband, now in the printing business for himself, formerly was the general manager of the Con P. Curran Printing Co.

However, a codicil, dated Nov. 14, 1933, annulled the share of personal property for one daughter, Mrs. F. W. Corley, 4303 McPherson avenue, to her son, John F. Corley, 4478 Maryland avenue; Mrs. Sol W. Gross, 4512 West Pine boulevard, and Mrs. William H. Gross, 5602 Kingsbury court.

Against such sales, Johnston said, the pool manager will purchase futures contracts immediately with a view to maintaining the net position of the pool. The aim, he said, would be to bring the futures market nearer to the spot market's level and increase contract prices for the new crop months to a "more satisfactory level."

"It will be the purpose to conduct these transactions without market disturbance," Johnston said. "Nothing will be done to bring about any abnormal market situation."

He said the decision to sell from pool stocks, a practice discontinued after the March 11 market decline, was made after repeated requests from mills and merchants for certain grades of cotton.

AAA officials estimated present holdings of the pool, at 1,300,000 bales of cotton and 200,000 bales in futures contracts. They said most of the cotton was taken over from the old Farm Board and that prices now permit its sale at a level sufficiently above the 12-cents a pound Government loan figure to pay carrying charges.

AMELIA EARHART TELLS OF FLIGHT FROM MEXICO,
D. F. TO NEW YORK CITY

sandwiches. Out of them I ate one egg and one sandwich.

It was a few minutes past 6, Mexican time, when I took off. Although I used perhaps a full mile of the improvised runway the plane got into the air with surprising ease. Then I climbed to 9000 feet, skimming over the mountains that lie between Mexico City and the sea.

Once across the divide, clouds banked continuously below me stretching down over the gulf. I saw little but their contours with the exception of one brief glimpse of a group of oil tanks from which I estimated I must be close to Tampico. Thence I bore northward in a straight line across the Gulf to New Orleans, a distance of about 700 miles. Over the water I held my altitude of 9000 feet. Two layers of clouds were beneath me. Now and then one reared its head up almost to my level.

Steamer Sighted En Route.
Once as I neared shore, a hole appeared below me and through it I spied a single steamer. The incident reminded me of a lone ocean going vessel which the crew of the Friendship saw in 1928 toward the end of their flight from Newfoundland to Wales.

The Frisco Railroad will distribute about $300,000 to 15,000 workers, the Wabash Railroad will turn over $250,000 to 11,000 employees and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas will distribute $175,000 to 8000 workers.

Amounts which reverted to the railroad treasures follow: Missouri Pacific, $1,340,000; Frisco, $600,000; Wabash, $500,000; Missouri-Kansas-Texas, $380,000.

Deputy Probate Clerk Resigns.

Official Action on Labor Board Ruling—Company Already Has Surrendered Emblem.

The Lacled Gas Light Co. received official notice today that it may not display a Blue Eagle, the NRA emblem, which the company voluntarily surrendered last February.

A telegram from L. J. Martin, chief of the Compliance Division of NRA, read as follows: "This acknowledges your telegram of May 7. National Labor Relations Board has found you violated Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery Act. On that body's recommendation and findings you are hereby deprived of your right to display any Blue Eagle in any manner by direction of the compliance and enforcement director."

The National Labor Relations Board affirmed a finding of the St. Louis Regional Board last December that the gas company had refused to bargain with the Gas House Workers' Union, had forced a company union and had discriminated against a union employee. At the hearing Fred M. Switzer Jr., an attorney for the company, stated that the Blue Eagle had been voluntarily surrendered and that inasmuch as no formal notice of the extension of the President's unemployment agreement had ever been received the agreement was not regarded as binding any longer.

Union Calls Strike.

Union gas workers called their strike March 28, as a result of the refusal of the company to abide by the Labor Board ruling that the union should be accepted as collective bargaining agent for all employees of the mechanical department.

In a letter to the National Industrial Recovery Board last Feb. 26, the gas company renounced its right to display the Blue Eagle and offered the following explanation:

"The National Labor Relations Board pretends to base its jurisdiction on the ground that the company signed the President's re-employment agreement. It has, but very recently been called to the attention of the officers of the Lacled Gas Light Co. that the continued display of the Blue Eagle would be construed as an acceptance of an extension of the President's re-employment agreement after Dec. 31, 1933, on which date the agreement by its terms expired. While the company denies that this fact gives the National Labor Relations Board jurisdiction over the company or over this subject matter, nevertheless, since the company cannot compromise with the closed shop principle that the National Labor Relations Board is attempting to enforce, it finds it necessary to discontinue the display of the Blue Eagle.

Given Up NRA Emblem.

The Lacled Gas Light Co. therefore, hereby surrenders the Blue Eagle and renounces its right to display the same in the future.

"It is with sincere regret that the Lacled Gas Light Co. finds it necessary to pursue this action, and although the company must give up the display of the Blue Eagle, it desires, however, to reaffirm its sincere desire to co-operate in the work of the National Recovery Administration and to reaffirm its desire of maintaining the highest possible standard of labor conditions."

Batch of Letters, Special Stamps.

My cargo was a small batch of letters in an official pouch of the Mexican Postoffice Department, some of them originating in Mexico City, others carried by me first from Los Angeles south, for at Burbank, Cal., as an executive of mail-carrying line. I had been sworn in as a mail pilot. These letters bore the special stamps which had been issued by the Mexican Government in connection with my flight, some being destined for collectors and others for personal friends.

The only actual souvenir of my visit that came back with me by plane was the transport pilot's license given me by the Mexican Government, a gift treasured by a flyer. The rest of collection returned from the record of my fingerprints, taken by the police department, to native costumes.

As lasting as these tangible mementos are the memories of a supremely interesting fortnight, rich with the fun of flying and warmed by the hospitality of a generous people.

Several successful non-stop flights have been made by men from New York and Washington to Mexico, D. F., but none from Mexico, D. F., north. The rarefied atmosphere of the Mexican plateau is a handicap to flyers taking off with heavy loads of fuel. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew 2100 miles from Washington, D. C., to Mexico, D. F., non-stop in 27 hours, in 1927. Maj. James H. Doolittle and the late James Weddell made the flight non-stop in 1931 and 1932, respectively. In 1930, Col. Roberto Pierro and Arnulfo Cortes, Mexican flyers, flew from New York to Mexico, non-stop, in 16 hours, 33 minutes.

DEPOSITS IN STATE BANKS UP 22.5 PCT. IN 15 MONTHS

Increase of $114,791,000 Since Federal Insurance Law Went Into Effect.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—Deposits in state banks and trust companies in Missouri increased 22.5 per cent from Dec. 30, 1933, to April 15, 1934, the State Finance Department reported today.

The comparison is based on total deposits at the time the Federal deposit insurance law went into effect, and returns from the latest state bank call.

Deposits on Dec. 30, 1933, totaled $507,238,901, and on April 15 this year $622,030,045, an increase of $114,791,144. Demand deposits during the 15-month period rose from $356,207,589 to $459,051,403, an increase of $102,843,813.

Resources of institutions chartered by the State Finance Department on Dec. 30, 1933, were $644,462,168 and on April 15, 1934, $745,913,876, an increase of $101,451,707. The amount of bonds on hand increased from $190,281,832 to $285,234,404, a rise of $75,641,572.

There were 709 banks and trust companies under supervision of the banking department on Jan. 1, 1934, compared with 634 on the date of the last call.

Peter J. Pauly Estate $103,000.

Peter J. Pauly, president of the Pauly Jail Building Co. who died March 5, left an estate valued at $103,057, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. He bequeathed the bulk of his property to relatives including a sister, Mrs. Mary Fohrer; Mrs. Katherine Albrecht, a niece; and Joseph J. and William P. Fohrer, nephews. Mr. Pauly, a widower, resided at 3643 Botanical avenue.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ADDRESSED CONGRESS DIES

Mrs. Susan Cook, 91, Spent Much Time Trying to Get Land Back for Her Race.

Mrs. Susan Sanders Cook, 91-year-old Cherokee Indian, who for the last 38 years championed the efforts of her tribe to secure payment from the Government for its lands in Oklahoma which had been given to others, died yesterday in her room at the Alcazar Hotel, 3127 Locust street, following a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Cook, who was blind, dictated until this week, three or four letters each day to Senators and Representatives in Washington in the interests of the Cherokee's claims. Since 1897 she sought payment for the lands, contending the Government had no right to give the property to whites who married into the tribe.

Much of her time was spent in Washington before the Indian Commission and various courts, and on one occasion she was permitted to speak before the House of Representatives. She was born in Vinita, Okla., and came to St. Louis 40 years ago after the death of her husband.

Surviving are five children, one of whom, Mrs. Florence N. Gross, operates the Alcazar Hotel. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday from the Wacker-Helderle Chapel, 3634 Gravois avenue, with burial in Bellfontaine Cemetery.

Russians to Consider Rocket Trip.

MOSCOW, May 9.—Plans for a rocket which is thought capable of ascending 113,000 feet will be studied by the Soviet stratosphere committee.

A New Trail to California

40 years ago a short cut scenic route to California was only a dream. That dream has come true—the James Peak Route through the Moffat Tunnel is open.

When you travel this marvelous new trail you don't go around the mountains—you go through them . . . the majestic Colorado Rockies, heart of America's glorious mountain realm. You plunge through the amazing 6-mile Moffat Tunnel, bored at terrific odds almost a mile below the frosted crest of James Peak.

And what a riot of scenery awaits you . . . scenery hitherto known only to hardy pioneer miners and hunters! Every moment a new spectacle—far-flung peaks with snowy summits—the roaring, relentlessly rushing waters of the Colorado River—colorful canyons and wooded valleys—truly one of America's grandest scenic areas!

AIR-CONDITIONED LUXURY

SHAD BENNETT LOSES $400,000 LIBEL SUIT

Jury Decides for Post-Dispatch on News Stories About Alleged Murder Plot.

A verdict in favor of the Post-Dispatch was returned yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge McAfee's court in a $400,000 libel suit filed by R. Shad Bennett, St. Louis lawyer.

In his suit Bennett alleged he had been damaged by news articles published in the Post-Dispatch in July, 1929, with reference to a warrant issued by a Justice of the Peace at Murphysboro, Ill., charging him with having entered into a plot to murder Ole King, a bankrupt meat merchant of West Frankfort, Ill. (King is now an airplane pilot in the East). Bennett held two insurance policies for $15,000 on King's life as part security for a $20,000 debt. A private investigator, according to the news accounts, told police he had been hired by Bennett to kill King.

The private investigator, Charles M. Loewe Jr., testified as a witness for the newspaper, telling of his alleged employment by Bennett. Bennett denied there was any truth in the charge and declared he had employed Loewe to ascertain what assets King had. Bennett was not prosecuted under the warrant, the Governor of Illinois having refused to issue requisition papers.

Bennett averred the articles printed were false, malicious and libelous and were "likely to and intended" and did provoke him to wrath and expose him to public hatred and public gossip and deprive him of the benefits of public confidence."

The Post-Dispatch denied there was any malice or that the publications were false and libelous, asserting that they were a true, fair and reasonably correct report of certain criminal proceedings in a Justice of the Peace court in Jackson County, Ill., and were printed in good faith. Information on which the articles were based was obtained from official police sources and was privileged, the defense contend.

The Post-Dispatch was represented by Ernest A. Green and J. Porter Henry of the law firm of Green, Henry & Remmers, and by former Missouri Supreme Court Judge Fred L. Williams of the firm of Williams, Nelson & English. Bennett was represented by Earl M. Pirkey, but during the trial acted as his own counsel. The trial required 13 days. In a suit against the Post-Dispatch by Bennett's brother, Ransom I. Bennett, who was indicted in connection with the same alleged plot, a jury a year ago also found in favor of this newspaper. Ransom Bennett had sued for $100,000 after the indictment against him was dismissed. R. Shad Bennett in 1933 lost a similar suit before a jury against the Star-Chronicle Publishing Co., publisher of the Star-Times.

The jury in the case just concluded was composed of John P. Duncan, 6221 Northwood avenue, foreman; Elmer S. Adams, 6337 Marquette avenue; Albert H. Bantle, 5373 Holly Hills avenue; Walter Bransch, 4611A Delor street; Thomas Burke, 5539 Cote Brillante avenue; Jerome C. Horner, 5209 Engle avenue; Harry F. Kamp, 1904A Garden street; William B. Keitel, 5928 Horton place; Bernard J. Lampe, 5116 Ross avenue; Clarence F. Mills, 4840 Bessie avenue; Otha M. Reynolds, 5324 Terry avenue; and Stanley Altman, 5060 Wabada avenue.

EMPIRE BREWERY PROPERTY RETURNED TO BONDHOLDERS

Syndicate's Plan to Operate Plant Falls Through; $100,000 Mortgage in Default.

The Empire Brewery property, Sarah street and Duncan avenue, has been turned back to bondholders of the Independent Breweries Co. by a St. Louis syndicate which failed to complete plans, made in 1933, to operate as the Empire Brewery Co.

Directors of the Empire Brewery Co. were E. L. Winterman, J. Reynolds Medart, W. G. Drost, Henry Antler and Nelson Tracy. The group bought the property for $150,000, paying $50,000 cash and giving a $100,000 mortgage, according to Mark C. Steinberg, chairman of the bondholders' committee of the Independent Breweries Co. In addition, $10,000 was paid in interest, taxes and insurance.

The new owners failed to start operation, and defaulted on the mortgage six months ago. Steinberg said. The property was returned to the bondholders of the Independent Breweries Co. this week under a quit claim deed, and has been offered for resale.

ANNUAL AVIATION MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN'S GROUP

Committee of Young Men's Division of C. of C. to Sponsor Program Tonight.

The third annual aviation meeting under auspices of the Aviation Committee of the Young Men's Division of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Hotel Jefferson.

Airline's development will be shown in an exhibition. Speakers will be Maj. Albert Bond Lambert; Col. Frank M. Kennedy, commandant of Scott Field; R. S. Damon, president of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co., and Oliver L. Parks, president of Parks Air College.

An added feature will be the presentation by representatives of foreign nations of their countries' music and dances.

MADRID, May 9.—The new Government of Premier Alejandro Lerroux won a vote of confidence last night, 189 to 22, shortly after it formally had entered Spain, traditionally neutral, in the European armaments race. Lerroux told the Deputies that increased armaments are necessary "so the nation can maintain a strong position in view of the uncertain European situation."

Betting on Races Is Virtually Licensed in St. Louis Under System Of Imposing Fines at Intervals

Saves Money for City, Circuit Attorney Says, as Public Apathy Makes Conviction by Jury Doubtful.

The well-organized and profitable bookmaking business in St. Louis, thinly disguised by such terms as "smoke shop" and "racing periodical shops," in the opinion of law enforcement officers, cannot be eliminated as long as there exists the public apathy similar to that manifested toward liquor sellers during prohibition.

Practical application of State gambling laws has had the effect of putting the illegal enterprise virtually on a license-paying basis, but some of the more wary have evaded the "fee."

This situation has grown out of the policy of Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, who has allowed bookmakers charged with being custodians of a bet, a "bony under Missouri statute, to plead guilty to a charge of keeping a common gaming house, a misdemeanor, and pay a standard fine of $250 for the first offense, and $500 for subsequent cases.

$25,000 in Fines in Six Years.

In this fashion, during the last six years, 97 bookmakers have paid fines of more than $25,000, which have gone to the funds of the Board of Education. Circuit Attorney Miller said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that thousands of dollars had been saved in the cost of trials, the outcome of which he says would have been extremely doubtful, due to the popular attitude toward betting on a horse race.

"It is the job of the police to bring in evidence on which we can make a case," Miller said. "We are always ready to prosecute, but we have found from experience that we do better by accepting a $250 fine."

"We must have evidence that a specific bet is made on a specific horse in a specific race. Whether the race is run in Missouri or whether the race is ever run makes no difference. We have that to our advantage. But it is not easy for police to obtain the evidence which is required."

Juries Slow to Convict.

"Even when we have a strong case there is the jury to consider. Few juries are without some member who has bet on a horse race and many who never have done so are inclined to view it as no great offense."

"There is a popular dislike for entrapment and this is the view taken by many when a policeman testifies that he made a bet, as he must do to obtain necessary evidence. This might be overcome if citizens concerned themselves with gathering evidence."

Many cases are not presented to the Circuit Attorney's office and some on which police think a case can be made are eliminated by the failure of a grand jury to indict. All cases in which the bookmaker is charged with being custodian of a bet are presented to the grand jury. Formerly, informations were issued but many of the cases fell by the wayside through dismissal in the Courts of Criminal Correction when preliminary hearings were held. Proceeding through grand jury indictment eliminates preliminary hearings.

Police Chief's View.

Chief of Police McCarthy said the gambling situation was "well in hand." No gambling houses were in operation, he asserted, and bookmaking establishments were fewer than when he took office Dec. 16, 1933.

"The gambling squad under Detective Sergt. William Forthman has done a good job," Chief McCarthy said. "I may look easy to make these arrests but it isn't so easy to make a case that will get a verdict of guilty."

"Some of our critics want us to go in with axes and tear these 'smoke shops' to pieces but it is obvious that we couldn't legally do that. They are licensed as tobacco stores or under other business classifications."

215 Handbooks Operated.

Chief McCarthy also spoke of the inclination of jurors to view the offense lightly and referred inquiries as to the number of handbooks operating to Chief of Detectives Carroll, under whom the gambling squad operates.

In June, 1932, Chief Carroll said, there were between 450 and 500 handbooks in operation. When he became Chief 18 months later the number, he estimated, was 350. Since that time, he said, it had been reduced to 215.

The gambling squad under Sergt. Forthman has consisted of five other detectives and such probationary patrolmen in plains clothes as were needed. Sergt. Forthman, at his own request, was removed yesterday as head of the gambling squad and will return to general detective duty, being succeeded by Detective-Sergeant Joseph V. Walker, a member of the gambling squad for several years.

Hard to Get Convictions.

"It is practically impossible for a stranger to make a bet in a St. Louis handbook," Sergt. Forthman asserted. "We assign rookie policemen to make bets at known handbooks and many times it requires a week for them to gain the confidence of the bookmaker and induce him to accept a bet. Members of the squad are known to tions obtained from 175 bookmakers at $50 each in most cases and $100 from two large operators.

With the repeal of prohibition Brown and Owen established Brown-Owen, Inc., in the Mart Building, one of the largest wholesale liquor firms in St. Louis, and recently they were indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate laws of the United States, in shipping liquor into Arkansas when it was a dry State and failure to keep a true and complete set of records of the firm's transactions. Indicted with them was William Molasky, an officer of the liquor firm who also supplies racing forms. William J. (Boots) Brennan, Democratic politician, signed their bonds.

Move to Dismiss Taft Gold Suit.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Government yesterday requested dismissal of the Court of Claims suit filed by Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, demanding payment of a $1,06 interest coupon on a $50 gold Liberty bond. He challenged the Treasury's right to call Liberty bonds in advance of maturity without redeeming them in gold.

MORE WORK DONE..
NO EXTRA CHARGE

Supposing that, in 1933, you lived in a St. Louis home with five counted rooms and used 70 kilowatt hours of electricity every month. Then you paid $3.59 a month for it.

And that was among the lowest electric rates in the country.

This year, living in that same house, using that same amount of electricity, you pay only $2.42 for it, thanks to Union Electric's new low rate.

Here's what the $1.17 you save will bring you in the way of more electric help.

For the whole month it will:

Do the laundry with an electric washer and ironer

Run your vacuum cleaner

Run your radio

Give you correct time from an electric clock

Make waffles twice a week

Make toast every day

Make coffee every day.

All that work—no extra charge. Because Electricity is cheap in St. Louis.

YES, WE ALL LOVE lovely Kitchens...

BUT WE LOVE TO LEAVE THEM, TOO

LET'S be frank. No matter how charming the kitchen, most women would prefer to be somewhere else. At the bridge table, making a small glamor, for instance. Or going places in the car.

That's why we make Monel Metal equipment both lovely and "leavable." For instance, in the cabinet-sink illustrated below, there are four drawers and two bins. Having all cooking utensils and supplies right by the sink saves you hundreds of steps every day.

$105.50

Incidentally, doesn't that price surprise you? A five-foot Monel Metal "Straitline" Sink (faucet not included in price) plus a steel base cabinet. At $105.50 that is typical of the brilliant values now offered in Monel Metal.

SY-EASY-EASY-EASY-EASY

But let's get back to the "leavable" side of Monel Metal. You'll find that this wonder-metal is very, very easy to clean. Pots and pans give Monel Metal no black marks. Fruit juices discover that their attacks on its glaze are—frustrated. It's always a quick clean-up—on these smooth silvery surfaces.

We are now holding the first comprehensive exhibit of Monel Metal tanks, cabinets, ranges and tables ever staged in this city. This is the modern kitchen equipment you've seen pictured in leading magazines. Now come and see for yourself what it really looks like.

For no photograph is capable of doing justice to the soft silvery lustre of Monel Metal.

HOUSE AGAINST BUYING FEDERAL RESERVE

Beats Proposal for Government Ownership in Debate on Bank Bill.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9—Moving rapidly toward final passage of the omnibus banking bill, the House, after less than 10 minutes' discussion, today rejected, 78 to 44, an amendment by Representative Hollister (Rep.), Ohio, to eliminate the section letting the Federal Reserve Board change the reserve which member banks must maintain against demand and time deposits.

The House also voted, 112 to 61, against outright Government ownership of the Federal Reserve System. It defeated an amendment by Representative Cross (Dem.), Texas, under which the Federal Treasury could have bought the $140,000,000 in stock of the 12 reserve banks now held by the reserve member banks.

Representative Hancock (Dem.), North Carolina, unsuccessfully offered an amendment requiring all state banks to join the Federal Reserve System by July 1, 1938, in order to obtain Federal deposit insurance. He conceded his amendment was designed to unify the banking system, and argued that, with 7000 banks in the Reserve System and 9000 or more out of it, there was no possibility of a uniform, nation-wide banking policy. His amendment was shouted down without even a division vote.

On a standing vote, the House defeated, 199 to 91, an attempt by Representative Goldsborough (Dem.), Maryland, to obtain consideration of his plan, which would direct the Reserve Board to try to establish a commodity price level equal to the 1921-1929 average.

The Democrats made no reply.

The Democrats yesterday rejected, 83 to 53, an amendment to strike from the bill the section giving the Reserve Board almost complete control over purchases and sales of Government obligations by Reserve Banks.

The House approved the title making permanent the present temporary deposit insurance.

Deposits up to $5000 are insured 100 per cent now. The bill would increase that insurance July 1 to $10,000, and insure 75 per cent of deposits from $10,000 to $50,000 and 50 per cent of all deposits over $50,000.

Because of a general agreement that the $5000 limit covers over 90 per cent of present bank depositors, the administration and the House agreed to let that stand.

On a number of points, the Democratic organization declined to take a position. The unofficial steering committee refused to oppose an amendment by Goldsborough (Dem.), Maryland, instructing the Reserve Board to use its new powers in an attempt to stabilize prices at the 1921-1929 average level.

The defenders of the bill consequently had their narrowest vote on that amendment, but it finally was rejected 128 to 122.

Goldsborough contended that unless there was in the bill a specific instruction to the Federal Reserve Board as to what it should do, he feared it would be unconstitutional.

ELECTED FOR 31ST TIME

Dr. E. J. Goodwin Again Secretary of State Medical Society.
Dr. E. J. ROOSEVELT MESSAGE ON CRIME PROBLEM

President Urges Law Institute to Continue Work Toward Revision of Code.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Continuation of efforts to revise the criminal law as an aid to solving the crime problem was advocated today by President Roosevelt, in a message sent to the American Law Institute.

The President's letter said:

"Last year I had the pleasure of sending a word of greeting to the twelfth annual meeting of the American Law Institute. On that occasion, I took the liberty of making a suggestion—the suggestion that while you continued to carry forward the clarification and simplification of the common law through your great project of re-statement, you should begin to give serious consideration to work of equal importance in the field of the criminal law.

"I am happy to learn that my suggestion commanded itself to you and that a committee composed of eminent lawyers, economists, sociologists, psychiatrists and other experts in the allied social sciences was appointed by your council to advise you on the work which you can usefully do in this field.

"I am deeply interested to learn that you have received from this committee a report which has been approved by your council and which recommends that you prepare and from time to time publish parts of a proposed code of criminal law, using that expression in its widest sense.

One of Major Problems.

"I expressed in my letter of last year my conviction that the adaptation of our criminal law and its administration to meet the needs of a modern, complex civilization is one of our major problems.

"I feel that the type of work proposed by your committee will, if executed with scientific care, be a valuable contribution to our progress towards the solution of the crime problem, and I accordingly hope you will be able to see your way clear to carry through such an important public service.

These meetings of the American Law Institute in Washington emphasize the public responsibility of the bar, not merely to practice the law, but to maintain its vitality and carry forward its growth and improvement by disinterested scientific work.

"In a country like ours, where so much depends upon the spirit and breadth of vision with which the law is administered, it is heartening indeed to witness this recognition of their public obligations by so many of the outstanding leaders of the bench and bar.

"I accordingly extend my warm and cordial greetings to your members and wish to say that I shall be very glad to receive a committee from the institute if there are any matters upon which you especially wish to confer with me.

Very sincerely yours,

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Chief Justice Speaks.

Chief Justice Hughes urged simplified procedure in Federal courts to speed a final decision of cases and eliminate technicalities.

Explaining that Congress had empowered the court to change the method of procedure, Hughes said:

"The goal we seek is a simplified practice which will strip procedure of unnecessary forms, technicalities and distinctions, and permit the advance of causes to the decision of their merits with a minimum of procedural encumbrances."

The Chief Justice declared "there is no excuse for any inordinate delay in the prosecution of criminal appeals."

George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General and president of the organization, called for a study of "conditions growing out of the recent unprecedented increase of bureaucracy in our government."

PEPPER GETS TWO SINGLES AND DOUBLE, BATS IN TWO RUNS

By James M. Gould

Still without a victory to show for their last 10 games, the Browns this afternoon began a three-game series with the Philadelphia Athletics of Connie Mack—themselves No. 1935 bargains.

Manager Hornsby chose Dick Coffman to start his pitching while Mack depended on Joe Casarella.

Hornsby benched Harland Cliff and sent Johnny Burnett to third base. Rollie Hemmey also returned to duty after one day out. The Browns' batting order was considerably changed with Jack Burns moving into the lead-off, Burnett in third place and Hemmey, sixth.

Only a few of the faithful turned out in face of the threatening weather.

Geisel and Ormsby were the um-press.

The game:

FIRST INNING—ATHLETICS

Finney lined to Mellilo. Cramer fouled to Burns. Johnson fouled to Burns.

SECON—ATHLETICS—Burns was called out on strikes. West singled past second and took an extra base when Cramer fumbled the ball. Burnett grounded to Finney, West reaching third. Pepper doubled off the wall in right center, scoring West. McNair made a nice running catch of Bell's foul. ONE RUN

SECOND—ATHLETICS—Foxx grounded to Strange. So did Higgins. Moses sent a long fly to right.

BROWNS—Warster threw out Hennies. Mellilo grounded to McNair. Strange fouled to Finney.

THIRD—ATHLETICS—McNair was safe when Strange threw his grounder high to first. Warster flied to West. Casarella sacrificed, Coffman to Burns. Trying to catch McNair off second, Coffman threw right field and McNair went to third. Finney singled through the box, scoring McNair. Cramer forced Finney, Mellilo to Strange. ONE RUN

BROWNS—Coffman struck out. Burns flied to Cramer. West bunted toward third. Burnett forced West. McNair to Warster.

FOURTH—ATHLETICS—Johns walked. Foxx also walked. Higgins sacrificed, Burns to Mellilo. Pepper made a nice running catch of Moses' foul drive. Johnson scoring. Foxx struck out. McNair lined to Pepper. ONE RUN

BROWNS—Pepper singled to center. Bell struck out. Pepper was out, stealing. Foxx to McNair. Hennies singled to center. Mellilo forced Hennies. McNair to Warster. ONE RUN

BROWNS—Pepper singled to center. Bell struck out. Pepper was out, stealing. Foxx to McNair. Hennies singled to center. Mellilo forced Hennies. McNair to Warster. ONE RUN

SEVENTH—ATHLETICS—Warster fouled to Strange. Casarella was called out on strikes. Finney singled to right, hitting the ball through the legs of Moses. The ball went through the legs of Moses and Pepper reached third. Bell grounded to Pepper. ONE RUN

SIXTH—ATHLETICS—Burnett made a nice stop and threw out Johnson. Foxx walked. Higgins flew deep in center. Moses singled to center. Foxx stopping at second. McNair forced Moses, Strange to Pepper and the bases were filled. ONE RUN

BROWNS—Hennies fouled to Pepper. Mellilo flied to Moses. Strange flied to Cramer. SEVENTH—ATHLETICS—Burnett threw out Warster. Casarella to right for his third hit. Pepper singled to left, Finney stopping at second. Johnson walked and the bases were filled. Foxx forced Johnson, Strange to Mellilo. ONE RUN

BROWNS—Hennies fouled to Pepper. Mellilo flied to Moses. Strange flied to Cramer. SEVENTH—ATHLETICS—Burnett threw out Warster. Casarella to right for his third hit. ## GRANT TO PLAY IN TWO SINGLES AGAINST CHINA

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., May 9.—Final workouts today will determine the lineup of the American team to play against China tomorrow in a North American zone Davis Cup match.

The winner of the five-match series will oppose Mexico next weekend for the right to compete in England against the victor in the European cup zone qualifying round.

Walter L. Pate, captain of the United States squad, has decided to use Bryan M. Grant Jr. of Atlanta in two singles matches; J. Donald Budge and C. Gene Mako of California for the one doubles match, but how he will assign the players for the other two singles contests is undecided.

Pate indicated, however, that Budge and Mako would play one singles match each, although there is a likelihood Mako will see action in the doubles only, with Budge and Grant sharing the singles assignments.

Acknowledged by all observers as top-heavy choices to sweep all five matches from China's young two-man team—Shi Kie Kho and Guy Cheng—the American players have been concerned over the misbehavior of their shots in this high altitude.

When the players of the two nations start the three-day competition tomorrow with two singles matches, it will be their debut in international tennis.

HOCKEY CLUB'S STATUS WILL BE AIRED AT MEETING OF OWNERS

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, May 9.—The Herald, in its final edition yesterday, stated it had learned "from an unimpeachable source" the Canadian Hockey Club has finally made definite demands for suspension of operations for a time and for the removal of the club from Montreal without endangering their territorial hockey rights."

The paper continues:

"The club forwarded a letter to President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League demanding permission to deal with certain outside offers, one of which is from Cleveland, regarding the transfer of the team for next season's campaign."

"An alternative demand to the league is that the club be allowed to suspend operations for one year." Leo Dandurand, managing director of the club, has a third suggestion, it was learned, but this will not be revealed until the meeting of the owners of National Hockey League clubs takes place here tomorrow. The meeting of the club owners will precede the annual meeting of the National Hockey League to be held here Saturday."

WESTROPE ESCAPES INJURY ACCIDENT FATAL TO HIS MOUNT

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.—Davolos, a three-year-old filly owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Marx's Milky Way Farm, broke its neck by running into a fence after bolting at the start of the fourth race at Churchill Downs yesterday. Jockey Jackie Westrope escaped injury, although before killing itself the filly ran into the rail and tossed the jockey off.

He said the champion's condition was not believed to be serious but that Baer had not yet been removed from the operating room.

BROWNS—Pepper singled to center. Bell struck out. Pepper was out, stealing. Foxx to McNair. Hennies singled to center. Mellilo forced Hennies. McNair to Warster.

FIFTH—ATHLETICS—Warster fouled to Strange. Casarella was called out on strikes. Finney singled to right and the Athletics' second hit. Cramer flied to Pepper.

BROWNS—Strange walked. Coffman sacrificed, Finney unassisted. Warster threw out Burns. Strange to third. West walked. Burns singled too hot for McNair. Strange to right for his third straight hit scoring West and when Moses let the ball go through him, Burns and Pepper reached third. Bell grounded to Pepper. ONE RUN

SIXTH—ATHLETICS—Burnett made a nice stop and threw out Johnson. Foxx walked. Higgins flew deep in center. Moses singled to center. Foxx stopping at second. McNair forced Moses, Strange to Pepper and the bases were filled. Foxx forced Johnson, Strange to Mellilo. ONE RUN

RECORD ENTRY LIST FOR COAST RELAYS

FRESNO, Cal., May 9.—The entry list for the West Coast relays Saturday is the largest in the history of the event, a final check yesterday showed.

A field of 607 athletes will compete in the day and night carnival in the Fresno State College Stadium.

Thirteen institutions, represented by 178 athletes, will vie for points and championship honors in the university class. In the junior college division 21 schools have entered 202 athletes. Thirty-two high schools will send 227 contestants.

5-1 SHOT LEADS ALL THE WAY TO WIN AT PIMLICO

By the Associated Press.

PIMLICO, Md., May 9.—Jockey J. Gilbert and Fluffy Lee completed the winning combination to account for the opening event of the afternoon and triumph of the Mrs. C. W. Williams' Miss was in the nature of a mild surprise when she led for every step of the nine-furlong race to score in a drive. ## FIELD OF AT LEAST 12 IS EXPECTED FOR THE PREAKNESS

ND HIS UPE TO ENNIS
Y HERE

Boxthorn is on way to Pimlico to compete in $25,000 stake

The Passing Show.

WE noticed the Chicago fans are all agog and laying plans The A. L. flag to cop. The world is surely upside down, The White Sox of the windy town are roosting at the top.

Phil Collins is no more a Phil. For Frankie Frisch he'll hurl the ball.

Completing Frank's quartet.

Skipping merrily along and hitting her best stroke after the mile post, the bay daughter of Black Tanee flashed nine furlongs in 1:57 and 10 furlongs—a half more than the Preakness distance—in 2:10 3-5.

Her mark was fully as impressive as that yesterday of Omaha, Kentucky derby champion and Preakness favorite.

Apparently tuning up for a good start, the son of Gallant Fox was fast at 1:41-5 for the mile than Black Helen, but the filly, working on a fast finish, took 11-5 seconds off his nine-furlong clocking of 1:54 1/2. By quarter, half, three-quarters mile, nine and 10 furlongs, she was timed as follows in her workouts: 25, 51-2, 1:17 2-5, 1:42 1/2, 2:10 3-5.

Track is Drying Out.

The course is drying out rapidly and the filly had a faster track than William Woodward colt did for him.

Walter M. Jefford's Firethorn and Mrs. Jefford's Commonwealth looked fit and ready as they breezed nine furlongs this morning. Firethorn's clocking was: 26-3, 53-1, 20-4-5, 1:48-3-5, 2-0-1, and Commonwealth's: 27, 53-2-5, 1:21, 1:50, 2-0.

Nellie Flag, Warren Wright's choice filly and Furfur, W. A. Jones Preakness hope, although not essaying any lengthy tests, were full speed in short workouts. The filly breezed five furlongs beautifully in 1:08, and Furfur was clocked at 25 for a quarter, and 51-2 for three furlongs.

Lugine Works Nice Mile.

Although Breckinridge Long's Lugine was said to be doubtful to start this likely son of Epsom worked a nice mile in: 25-2, 51-2, 1:48-3-5, 1:46-4-5.

Omaha, Kentucky Derby champion and odds-on favorite in the Pimlico closing feature, led the parade of nominees which limbered up in practice runs yesterday afternoon—all but stealing the show from the day's current race program—and gave every indication of top form.

Omaha Works Fast Mile.

The great son of Gallant Fox rounded out a fast mile and an eighth over a heavy track to finish up with plenty of reserve in 1:54 1/2. With Willie Saunders, his Derby rider, in the saddle, Omaha breezed through the distance with a smoothness that drew applause from thousands of fans lining the track.

That the champion will face stern challenges, however, was evidenced early in the performances turned out by other leading contenders for Preakness honors, notably E. R. Bradley's Bloodroot and Black Helen—two outstanding fillies in the list of candidates.

Bradley's Boxthorn, en route from Louisville, wound up sixteenth in the Blue Grass event but seemed to be moving on to promise much stronger competition in the Preakness. It developed today that the Bradley fillies are doubtful starters and are almost certain to run if Boxthorn is withdrawn.

Field of 12 Is Expected.

Indications are that the starting field may range from dozen to 18 with figures listed in addition to Omaha, heading the probable starters. Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Commonwealth, Mr. Jefford's Firethorn—another nominee which turned in a good workout yesterday—Brookmeade Stable's Psychic, Mrs. Calumet Farm's Nellie Flag, Far Field's Stable's Sun Fairplay, W. A. Jones' Furfur, Breckinridge Long's Lugine, Maemere Farm's Mangana, and Alfred Payne's Vanderbilt's Cold Shoulder.

In the event the starting field exceeds 10, the $25,000 added value mile and three-sixteenths test will be worth more than $27,000 to the winners.

HUGHES STARTS ACTION TO COLLECT $4550
FROM WAINWRIGHT

Associated Press.

TORONTO, May 9.—Action for $4550 from "Doc" Frank Wainwright of Toronto was launched in Superior Court yesterday by Albert Hughes, professional hockey player, who charged the money was due him for arranging purchase of the St. Louis hockey franchise of the American Association.

Hughes, claimed in November, 1934, Wainwright instructed him to negotiate for the purchase of the St. Louis franchise on the understanding he would receive $5000 and would be engaged to form a team and play on it. Hughes charged he received only $450. He is seeking the balance.

Hughes denied he instructed

Wainwright to negotiate for him and denied he agreed to pay $5000 for forming a team or playing on it. He denied he is the owner of the franchise in the league.

The plaintiff said he sometimes paid as little as $6 or $7 weekly, although he claimed he had signed a week.

The case is continuing.

The Back Bay district that home-cooking would be the cause of Shanty's downfall, but that fat averaging would indicate that crowding the plate agrees with him.

If "Shanty" can get to first base on a double, they can always put in a pinch runner.

Psychic Bid didn't get anywhere in the Kentucky Derby, but Grand Slam pulled down the Pimlico Nursery stake.

J. Pluvius took a holiday At last and let the Brownies play The Senators a game. The customers appreciate His kindness though a trifle late, And thank him just the same.

That's Funny!
Dizzy Dean got off on the right foot when he gravely announced that he had decided to be a humorist.

This crack of Dizzy's is like a shoemaker announcing that he is thinking of taking a whirl at the shoe business.

The purchase of Phil Collins would be more reassuring if the vendor hadn't been Jimmy Wilson. Jimmy has many admirable qualities, but giving aid and comfort to the Cardinals isn't one of them.

When 448 was posted opposite the name of "Shanty" Hogan, the Boston customers rubbed their eyes. At first they thought it was his weight, but it turned out to be his betting average.

Cardinals Play Like World Champions Even In Defeat at Brooklyn

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Frankie Frisch's Cardinals missed a great opportunity to improve their position in the young pennant race yesterday afternoon when they dropped a 3-2 decision to the Brooklyn Dodgers in 12 innings, but when you can look like a great ball club when losing you're doing something.

There were many reasons why stands were roaring for the kill, but the game was lost. There always when Leslie hit a smash to right field, and it seemed destined to skip into center, but Paul Dean lost the plate and the ball, and his temper. Ripper Collins took a ter field, Hallahan grabbed the ball, threw at first base and failed to touch the bag. Ed Heusser, to Durocher and Leo's relay to relieve Paul when he was put out to first completed a double play.

Heusser, welcoming an opportunity to nullify his fine pitching ability to pitch for the world champions at other times. Any many opportunities to win were lost by the Redbirds because they could not hit Van Lingle Mungo in the pinches.

Cardinals Fight.
But by large it was a rip-snorting ball game, and the Cardinals proved themselves as fighting a ball club as you ever saw in your life. And the failure to move into second place, which would have been the reward for a victory, is not apt to hurt at this stage of the race. There are many days and games and months of the pennant race remaining, and a team that can fight as the Cardinals did is the face of misfortunes and Mungo's brilliant pitching, will win enough games to make one forget they're long.

Bill Hallahan gave a fine exhibition of courage before he finally had to accept his third defeat of the season. Joe Medwick said the game as early as the third inning with a circus catch. And in the eleventh, just an inning before defeat finally swooped suddenly down on the forces of Frankie Frisch, Johnny Rothrock and Virgil Davis turned as pretty and spectacular a play as you would care to see.

Linus Frey opened the eleventh frame with a double to left and, after Koenecoe struck out, Sambo Taylor broke up the ball game by punching a single to right. It looked like the ball game, but then he gave up or quit in the Cardinal lexicon. Rothrock moved out on the hit, took it on the first bounce, threw quickly and accurately and the ball reached Davis on the first hop, after Frey had taken off in his slide for the plate.

A Great Play.
Frey claimed impossible for Davis to hold that ball in the face of Frey's vicious slide. But Spud held on, dived for the plate and tagged Frey a fraction of a second before he could score. Davis went sprawling, but he got his man and the red hot Dodger fans, 7600 of them, worked to a fever heat by one steaming in, running after another, forgot their disappointment in admiration for a daring and finely executed play and gave the Cardinals the cheer they deserved.

That was just one of the fine plays, with which the afternoon was crowded. Bill Hallahan turned one himself to squeeze the Dodgers as early as the ninth inning. With one, Frey singled to left and Koenecoe waited and walked. The

CCC MEN BUILDING TOWN
FOR SETTLERS IN ALASKAFirst 67 Farm Families to Arrive Tomorrow to Make Homes in Matanuska Valley.

By the Associated Press.

PALMER, Alaska, May 9.—Working in their shirt sleeves, Civilian Conservation Corps men were building a town today for the arrival tomorrow of 67 Minnesota farm families, the Government's first contingent on the Matanuska Valley project. About 50 temporary homes were taking form and several community buildings were near completion.

From Seward, 110 miles to the south, word came that the colonists were about ready to leave the army transport St. Mihiel, their living quarters since arriving in Alaska last Monday night.

Five cases of measles, four of them children, were well along toward recovery at the Seward Hospital. The patients will be left behind when the colonists leave there on the Alaska Railroad.

FATHER INDICTED WITH SON ADMITS
INSURANCE KILLINGSays He Didn't Know Victim—Expected Youth to Identify Body and Collect
$12,500 on Policies.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 9.—A confession that he murdered a man whose identity he did not know in an effort to defraud insurance companies was obtained late yesterday, according to Assistant District Attorney W. G. Andrew, a candy shop proprietor. The confession was announced shortly after Di Stasio and his son, Anthony di Stasio, 23, were indicted for first degree murder.

Andrew said the elder Di Stasio had expected the victim's body to be identified as his own and that the son would collect $12,500 in insurance on his life.

The body was found Monday in Di Stasio's burned automobile. Police said identification might be impossible.

A medical examiner found that the head had been crushed, legs and arms broken, probably by being run over by an automobile, but that there was evidence the man still was alive when the automobile was drenched with gasoline and set on fire.

Boston police announced they had obtained a statement from Anthony di Stasio that on Monday, in his own car, he followed his father and another man to Hudson. Police said the son told them he remained 100 yards behind his father's car when it stopped and after a short interval drove his father to Boston, but had no knowledge of the crime.

The elder Di Stasio was arrested by a policeman in Boston's automobile district yesterday. After the Di Stasios had been questioned by State and city police they were brought to Cambridge for further examination by District Attorney Warren L. Bishop.

State officers and Hudson and Boston police testified briefly before a Middlesex County grand jury and indictments were quickly returned.

Di Stasio was handcuffed to his son, when the two were taken into court today and pleaded not guilty. No trial date was set, but the father and son were remanded to jail without bail.

CLAYTON TO VOTE ON TAKING IN .68 MILE OF FORSYTHEExtension of City Limits Will Enable Making of Contract With Washington University.

An election on a proposal to extend the corporate limit of Clayton from the south to the north curb of Forsythe boulevard will be called by Mayor Shaw who received authorization Wednesday night at a meeting of the Clayton Board of Aldermen.

A favorable vote will enable consummation of a contract between the City of Clayton and Washington University whereby the expense of maintaining the street between Big Bend boulevard and the east Clayton boundary, a distance of .68 mile, will be shared equally between the university and property owners on the south side of the street. Under the contract the university will receive fire and police protection from Clayton.

OLD FEDERAL BLDG. SCULPTURE

Public to Be Permitted to View It From Room Across Street.

A view of the sculpture group on the top of the old Federal building will be afforded the public next week from Room 1036 in the Arcade building. The Isaac T. Cook Co., agent for the building, announced today that the room will be open to the public from Tuesday to Friday between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The figures, by Daniel Chester French, who later became well-known for his "Minute Man" statue commemorating the Battle of Concord, are of flesh-colored marble and represent Justice and Mercy with an eagle between them. The sandblasting which is part of the general rehabilitation of the building, brought the figures to greater public notice.

KING RECEIVES PARLIAMENT IN WESTMINSTER

Peers and Members of House Cheer Monarch and Queen After Ceremony in Historic Hall.

VELVET OF ROYALTY PUT OVER MACES

Ruler, in Reply to Jubilee
Congratulations, Says Building Is "Cradle of Government."

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 9.—King George and Queen Mary heard addresses of congratulation today on his silver jubilee when he received the lords and the members of the House of Commons in Westminster Hall, intimately connected with English history and English Kings for nine centuries.

The King and Queen arrived at St. Stephen's entrance to the famous hall, which forms part of the Palace of Westminster, in which the Houses of Parliament meet, at noon. They were met outside by the Lord Great Chamberlain, Viscount Lewisham, who introduced the Mayor and Mayoress of Westminster.

At the doors of Westminster Hall, their majesties were greeted by the First Commissioner of Works, William Ormsby-Gore, who is custodian of the building. Ormsby-Gore then led the King and Queen to the dais on the steps at the south end of the hall.

Called to Order Hour Before.

Members of the two houses were already in the hall when the King and Queen arrived. They had been called to order an hour before, and the members of Commons, preceded by their maces, which is the staff of authority, and the speaker, walked from the chamber through the lobbies and into the hall through the great north door. They were headed by their leader, the Lord Chancellor, entered the hall from St. Stephen's Hall, to safeguard the King's health, the doors were closed and heavily covered for the hall is known as the oldest building in London.

Their majesties were announced at the entrance, both maces placed on either side of the door, covered with velvet cloth, the symbol of the sovereign. The addresses of loyalty and congratulation which were approved in the Houses of Commons and Lords yesterday, were read by the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Sankey, and the Speaker of Commons, Capt. E. A. Phipps.

Referring to Westminster Hall as "the cradle of our envied parliamentary institutions," the King replied: "Here is the anvil on which our common law was forged to become the joint inheritance of the United States of America and of my own community of peoples."

Tribute to War Dead.
King George paid special tribute "in this hour of thanksgiving" to those killed and maimed in the war, turning them to the problem of post-war rehabilitation and expressing sympathy for "those who have suffered sadness and the burden of unemployment."

He concluded with the prayer: "I give thanks to Almighty God who has thus far sustained me and my people and I pray we may continue to pursue the cause of freedom and progress in the spirit of peace, tolerance and understanding."

Once the King's clear, ringing voice faltered. That was when he had turned to speak words of praise of "my dear wife," Queen Mary. Viscount Sankey, reading the lords' address of welcome, praised the monarch as one whose "personality made the throne not merely a symbol but a loved and living reality."

Captain Fitzroy, clad in full wig and black and gold ceremonial robes of his office, eulogized the King, declaring: "You are more than a sovereign; you are head of the family and of a nation, and of course you have made a house."

Cheers for King and Queen. Tears welled up in the eyes of the King and Queen as the legislators shedding their traditional gowns gave three cheers for King George and as many for Queen Mary under the leadership of the Lord Chancellor.

The King wore morning clothes with a top hat and black overcoat as he drove to Westminster Hall, while the Queen was attired in a silver brocade cloak with a white sash worn over a shimmering robe faintly tinted with pink. Her skirt was white, with matching shoes.

The King then led the Queen down the steps of the dais. Between the standing Lords and commons they proceeded through the north door where carriages were waiting, and were driven to Parliament Square and then to Buckingham Palace.

Ogden Mills Calls on Roosevelt To Make Good His Promise to Junk Program When It Failed

Enough Work Waiting to Give Millions of Idle Jobs for Years if U. S. Returns to Common Sense, He Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, May 9.—Ogden L. Mills called on the Republican party last night to proclaim a platform for "the maintenance of our American political and economic system" as opposed to collectivism.

In an address before the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, the former Secretary of the Treasury pronounced the New Deal a failure and urged its abandonment. Admitting there has been some business improvement, despite the New Deal, he charged the administration with responsibility of holding the country back from recovery.

"The Government's attempt to set up a rigid control of our national economic life; its fantastic monetary policies and an extravagance which threatens the national credit," Mills named as the forces retarding recovery.

After a plea for free government, free men and free enterprise, he set forth this 13-point program which, he declared, would promote a prompt return of prosperity.

Stop undermining the foundations. That is no way to repair the house.

Announce a determination, at a reasonably early date, to adopt a genuine gold bullion standard. Use of all our immense influence to induce other great nations to take the necessary steps leading to the stabilization of our currencies.

Co-operate with the rest of the world in breaking down the arbitrary restrictions such as quotas and exchange control that at present throttle world trade.

Maintain an easy money policy while vigilantly looking out for the first signs of an inflationary boom and being prepared to meet it promptly.

Balance the budget along the lines suggested by Mr. Lewis Douglas, Mr. Roosevelt's own Budget Director.

Restore the integrity of our Federal Reserve System under the supervision and direction of an independent and non-political Federal Reserve Board.

Begin the reformation of our banking structure.

Take the Government out of business.

Cease the persistent undermining of state and local governments.

Admit the obvious failure of NRA and abandon the experiment.

Fundamentally modify the AAA. The long run prosperity of American agriculture depends upon the revival of the purchasing power of the domestic market, upon the recapture of lost foreign markets and upon the development of new industrial uses for agricultural products. The processing tax is indefensible as a tax measure and impossible from an economic standpoint arbitrarily distorting, as it does, all costs, price and trade relationships.

Continue to protect farm and home ownership, and, in co-operation with State and local governments, see that all those in need are provided for, furnishing employment on public projects wherever useful projects, according to normal standards, may be found—always remembering that the fulfillment of the recovery program carries with it the promise that private enterprise will rapidly absorb the vast army of the unemployed.

Doesn't Condone Past Abuse.

Saying that such a platform did not condone past abuses and defects, which he declared must be corrected, Mills continued: "It is plain such weaknesses as the banking structure and practices must be set right, that unfair competition could not be prevented in insisting upon free competition, that old age and unemployment reserves should be provided for, and that anti-trust laws be enforced rather than suspended."

"But," he said, "surely these and similar problems can be solved without doing violence to the ideals and principles that have inspired and guided our nation through its entire life."

The question of concentration of wealth, he said, had three aspects—large individual fortunes, which he implied were inevitable in civilized society; distribution of income, to miding of the Tax.

Charge Scheme Would

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 9.—The Senate tangle resulting from an effort to obtain relief and old age pension funds through a sales tax without suffering political reprisals by taxpayers has become a deeper muddle with the introduction of Senator Clark's amendment to tax the income of every professional person and every salaried person and wage earner in the State.

After the Senate repeatedly had voted down proposed amendments to change the form of the tax from a privilege levy to a straight out sales tax on sales of tangible personal property, the Ray County Senator presented his proposal, the adoption of which would mean a tax on every person who received compensation in excess of $600 a year for services.

It would be an income tax addition to that now imposed, but, more far reaching, in that the exemption would be lower and it would make many more persons taxpaying.

What Amendment Provides.

The bill, in the form to which it had been held by the Senate, levied a tax on all retail sales and on a specified group of services. Clark's amendment would extend it to every kind of business and to every profession, trade or calling, compensated by wages, salaries, fees or commissions. Under it there would be included taxes on manufacturers and wholesalers, a proposal for which was sponsored by the Ray County Senator.

After the Senate had voted down proposed amendments to change the form of the tax from a privilege levy to a straight out sales tax on sales of tangible personal property, the Ray County Senator presented his proposal, the adoption of which would mean a tax on every person who received compensation in excess of $600 a year for services.

Senators who led the fight for the Patman measure, providing for payment of the bonus with $2,000,000 of new currency, said they had rejected proposals for a compromise to make the currency issue optional with the President.

This had been proposed by Senators Clark (Dem.), Missouri, and Gore (Dem.) Oklahoma, as a means of gaining more votes in an effort to pass the bill over a presidential veto.

Patman bill supporters decided, however, to stand on the present measure.

Thomas Enters Motions.

At the same time, Senator Thomas (Dem.) Oklahoma, Senate leader of the Patman bill forces, entered motions that would permit him to change his mind later and ask for reconsideration of the vote. He said he was making the move as a precautionary step only, and had no intention at the present time of going through with it.

"I think the bill is strongest in its present shape," he told the newspaper men. Asked if he had enough votes to pass the measure over a veto, Thomas said: "We are trying to get them, we haven't got them now. But we can't get any more votes by reconsidering. If we get one vote, we will lose three."

Long Announces Decision.

A few moments later, Senator Long (Dem.) Louisiana came out of the Senate Chamber to tell newspaper men he had conferred with Thomas and Senator Borah (Rep.) Idaho, and was ready to announce that they would not compromise. He returned a minute or two later to say that Senator McCarran (Dem.) Nevada, concurred with them.

Apparently some of the Patman bill's strongest supporters were more interested in its monetary angle than in paying the bonus, and insisted that this feature of the bill

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Republican filibuster against Senator Norris' proposal to expand the power and activity of the Tennessee Valley Authority wore on today, with Senator Norris compelled, against his will, to contribute to it. Senator Austin, Vermont Republican, who held the floor for three hours yesterday, consumed two more this afternoon. His castigation of the TVA was so severe that Senator Norris, who had announced that he desired only a vote, and therefore would not speak, was constrained to reply. It had been announced that Dickinson of Iowa and other regular Republicans would speak against the Norris amendments.

Substance of Amendments.

The Norris amendments against which Senator Austin is waging his filibuster would increase the power of TVA to issue bonds from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, would enable it to purchase existing power facilities, and empower it to sell surplus current to states, cities and other political subdivisions. The two last-named provisions are designed to overcome the effect of a decision recently rendered by Federal Judge Grubb of Birmingham.

Austin charged that there had been "decalculations" in the administration of the TVA but failed to make clear just what he meant by the term. Other Senators commented caustically in private on the fact that Senator Austin, before entering the Senate, had served as counsel for several New England utility corporations. Senate rules prohibit Senators from impugning each other's motives on the floor.

"Into Any Living Court."

Norris made a vigorous and emotional reply today to the attacks on his amendments, and by implication bitterly criticized Judge Grubb's decision. He declared one purpose of his amendments was to "protect lawyers all over the Tennessee Valley from suing for injunctions against the TVA."

"If our enemies would fight fair,"

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER
December 12, 1878
Published by
The Pulitzer Publishing Company
Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

THE CHAIN LETTER CRAZE

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WITH Congress voting appropriations for work-relief and men walking the streets looking for work, Postmaster Jackson (who I believe is an efficient Postmaster) nevertheless follows the lead from Washington and asks the people to stop this chain letter stuff.

How come? Extra volume, extra help, every feature that any private business man in the world would welcome; and the Government says, "Don't send letters, don't buy first-class rate stamps," not because of the lottery feature, mind you, but because it will delay the regular run of mail.

E. G.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHY not pay the soldiers' bonus with the 10-cent chain letter system? All this plan needs is a start-on-and-sends-out five letters, with the names of five veterans, and so forth, and before they know it, the bonus will be paid, each one receiving $1562.50. No inflation, no more operators. Contractors can give a sign of relief, everybody will be happy.

Maybe our ex-soldiers across the water can be induced to pay their defaulted war debts by this plan. There is no end to the possibilities of the scheme.

RUGGED INDIVIDUALIST.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
NOTHING is more mystifying, or even terrifying, than the thought that despite man's achievements in science and engineering skill, he is so little able to control the destiny of his social institutions. In fact, it would appear that in proportion as he advances in the arts of production, so does he diminish in his skill to direct affairs of state. Not the least of these evidences of social decadence is the present hysteria exemplified by the send-a-dime chain letters. Has this economic fallacy now become the last resort of a harassed people, whose time and ingenuity might better be devoted to constructive work having for its purpose the actual betterment of economic and social conditions?

Marceline, Mo. ARTHUR JOBSON.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHY all the fuss about the dime chain letters? They are as legal as price lists, special deal offerings, appeals to charity, and letters about other business schemes that go through the mail.

The arrests are made merely to frighten the craze out of existence. Why not be still and let Mr. Farley's department get out of the red? The fellow who thought it up had a lot more brains than the ones who are kicking about it. Anyway, it will kill itself after a while.

AMUSED AMERICAN.

Clarkton, Mo.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
AS Sunday's Post-Dispatch wisely pointed out, the dime chain letter promoters would eventually pay on the average $1562.50 each, plus about $200 in postage, in order to receive their quota of $1562.50. If I have correctly figured, the law of permutations and combinations would compel the acquisition of 244,120,625 people on the twelfth series of letters. If every person in this country were written to and the chain was unbroken, there would be approximately only 3000 people receiving the suggested $1562.50 and about 1000 more who would receive from 50 cents to $125.00, leaving 23,600,000 disappointed. And, furthermore, about 24,000,000 would have paid in postage about $600.00.

A. LAWTON GORDON.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHILE chain letters are using up all the surplus stationery, why don't we devise some system to make use of the surplus of shirts, shoes, suits and other merchandise? New shirt day, nation-wide, would do just that! The bankers are sweating their heads off trying to organize sound banks for the public to place their money in, when most of the public don't need a bank, for they haven't any money to put in one.

Union, Mo. PARRON.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial concerning chain letters, in the opinion of a great many of my friends, is the most nonsensical piece of journalism ever read in your press. Why, pray tell me, are you fellows so averse to seeing John Public pick up a few extra dimes? Lotteries are taboo; weather tickets are taboo; if you are caught selling sweepstakes ticket you are liable to go to prison; yet the elite can go to the Derby, jockey can gamble their skill, and the rich man in this town can gamble on the Merchants' Exchange with the very bread and butter that poor folks can't buy; and still you hate to see the small "poker" risk his dime.

JOHN PUBLIC.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial entitled "Dime Letters as Public Works" contains very pertinent comments. Your illustration should include the ancient quip about clerks in the offices of tax collectors being paid to figure out how much tax should be collected to pay them for computing the taxes.

It might even happen that sophisticated editors will be the ones who send the dimes, but fail to receive any in return.

ONE OF THE 12,000,000.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1935.

ST. LOUIS AND AVIATION.

The relation of St. Louis to aviation should command the serious attention of the community. The blunt truth is that we are losing that place in air traffic to which we are geographically entitled and for which we voted $2,000,000 for a modern airport.

The traffic at the airport tells the story. There are only 14 transport planes coming in and going out daily. Kansas City has distinctly more than that, and other airports much less central than our own far exceed us in the volume of traffic.

As an illustration, the TWA has three planes every day between New York and the Pacific coast. One of these stops at St. Louis, coming here by way of Columbus, O. The others go by way of Pittsburgh and Chicago. The Pittsburgh plane passes over the north edge of St. Louis and stops at Kansas City. Both the TWA and American Airlines have moved their general offices away from St. Louis. The TWA went to Kansas City and American Airlines to Chicago.

Traffic at the Chicago airport is many times greater than traffic at the St. Louis airport. It is inevitable that it should be larger. Chicago is the second American city. It is not, however, so central as St. Louis. Air travel bears the same relation to population that all other transport bears. If it followed population lines in the Mississippi Valley, the local airport would be one of the busiest in the United States.

It was in this expectation that we built the fine airport which St. Louis has. Our fault has been that we did not follow up this progressive move as we should have done. We sat down and waited for air traffic to come to us, whereas other communities went out and used their influence to get it. The Chicago airport is not comparable to our own. Yet planes come and go constantly, passengers and red caps rush about, taxicabs come and go. It is a beehive beside which our own beautiful airport is little more than a pastoral scene.

Air traffic is still in its infancy. As invention perfects the plane, increases its capacity and makes this most modern of all our forms of travel safer, the volume of air traffic will increase far beyond anything we know now. It has been so with highway traffic. Twenty-five years ago, there were 110,000 automobiles in the United States. Today, there are more than 25,000,000. Airplanes are now flying from coast to coast between sunrise and sunset. They are flying regularly between the United States and South America. This summer, they will begin flying across the Pacific, possibly the North Atlantic.

It is not too late for St. Louis to gain her rightful place in this great movement. She is falling behind because she is not fighting. Air routes follow political and pressure lines to a far greater degree than is generally known. All commercial air traffic in the United States is under control of the Commerce Department. With mail planes and passenger planes flying all over the nation, a network beyond that known anywhere else in the world, it is ridiculous that only 14 planes daily should go through the great airport which St. Louis maintains.

Wake up, St. Louis.

PROPHETIC.

By next December, some of us will recall vaguely that in the merry month of May, a peculiar get-rich-quick scheme was in vogue concerning the sending of dimes through a chain letter system. But just now, the thing is at its peak and mail carriers throughout the country are staggering under the added load of dime letters.

In a desire to be helpful, we undertook the other day an analysis of the chain letter scheme and showed that, while a few persons may benefit, most of those who participate are bound to lose. For our pains, we have received a flood of denunciatory letters, some of which are printed in the letter column today, accusing us of being "averse to seeing John Public pick up a few extra dimes."

From now on, we preserve a strict neutrality, waging a dime against a collar button that the chain letter fad will soon be dead as King Tut, and the King, we might add, is pretty thoroughly extinct.

RUSSIA'S PRESS.

The Soviet press, on the occasion of Pravda's twenty-third anniversary, is pointing with pride to its achievements. Its growing role as public educator and the increase in newspaper circulation, from 2,700,000 daily under the Czar to 26,500,000 daily now, are proper reasons for such pride. Likewise, its record of causing the correction of abuses and inefficiencies by pointing them out, as part of the "Bolshevik self-criticism" campaign sponsored by Stalin, is in line, as far as it goes, with the best ideals of the press in any country.

It is likely, as the Soviet press boasts, that it has comparatively greater freedom than the press in Fascist countries. But when that boast is extended to cover all foreign countries, it falls of its own weight. For instance, the critical forum in America is wide open, while the Russian self-criticism policy, as explained by Harold Denny, Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, works like this: "Any one may criticize the manner in which a party or Government decision is carried out, but should any one criticize the decision itself, he would be in for a great deal of trouble." In Russia, too, editors must be members of the Communist party, or sympathetic thereto.

As to the alleged restrictions on our own radical press, Mr. Denny supplies a complete answer: "If by some miracle the capitalist counterpart of New York's Communist Daily Worker were to be established in Moscow and get out one issue, it would be suppressed before the ink was dry, and everyone responsibly connected with it would quickly be on his way to increase the population east of the Urals."

The difference is this: The Soviet press is a Government and party agency, bound by its duties to its masters. The press in democratic countries is basically independent, and may support or criticize the government, as it pleases. So highly is the latter privilege held that a free press is among our most prized institutions. It is one of the significant differences between democracy and dictatorship.

LET THE GENERAL DO IT.

Yesterday we reprinted an editorial from the Baltimore Sun about the census of the unemployed that is to be undertaken as one of the work-relief projects. The Sun points out there are wide discrepancies in the estimates of unemployment as made by various private agencies and that "the flaws in their methods only serve to emphasize the need for a comprehensive and accurate unemployment census."

It has been indicated that the Department of Commerce intends to conduct the census in the manner of a general census. That is, it will employ thousands of census takers who will go from door to door asking their questions. If this is the plan, many months will elapse before the result is known.

Millions of dollars will be spent, and by the time the work is finished, the chances are another census will be needed.

We renew the suggestion made recently by Gen. Johnson that the census be taken according to the system of draft registration he devised during the war. Those registrations were held like elections, with the men going to their polling places on the appointed day. The results were known within 24 hours and the expense was comparatively negligible.

Only the other day, Gen. Johnson spoke of himself as belonging to the army of unemployed. Why not give him the task—one for which he is well fitted—of conducting the unemployment census in this efficient manner?

Y OUR editorial entitled "Dime Letters as Public Works" contains very pertinent comments. Your illustration should include the ancient quip about clerks in the offices of tax collectors being paid to figure out how much tax should be collected to pay them for computing the taxes.

It is safe to assume that so shrewd a strategist as Mussolini does not intend to have a European war catch him with a sizable part of his army in Africa.

Ergo, he expects no hostilities in Europe for a while. More hopeful as his action does make the situation on the Continent appear, this European straw is borne on a decidedly ill wind for the Ethiopians.

CONTINUE THIS GOOD WORK.

Representative Cochran of St. Louis is to be commended for introducing a bill to make a permanent governmental agency of the Central Statistical Board, which President Roosevelt created by executive order two years ago at the recommendation of a committee of the American Statistical Association, the professional organization of the statisticians of the country. This board, during its short existence, has performed a splendid service in co-ordinating the statistical activities of the various governmental departments. The result has been not only the avoidance of much unnecessary duplication, but an improvement in the quality of Federal statistics. Where there formerly was little or no co-operation among the many departments and bureaus, there is now increasing joint endeavor in the compilation of statistics.

From this it should be plain that the proposed establishment of this board on a permanent basis is not subject to criticism on the score that it sets up "another commission." Nor can it be opposed for the reason that it would add to the cost of government, since all the members of the board, with the exception of the chairman, would serve without salary. If further testimony is needed in behalf of a permanent board of this character, the support of many outstanding officials in the executive departments, including Dr. Isidor Lubin, able Commissioner of Labor Statistics, may be cited.

It is to be hoped that the bill, which has been reported to the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, of which Representative Cochran is chairman, will be the subject of favorable action, both in the committee and in Congress as a whole.

WRAPTUROUS MAT.

The permissible brevity of shorts on the tennis courts in our public parks has been under discussion. An academic question, we should think, in the circumstances. There may be a few hardy perennials to dash from base line to net in such laconic attire, but most of the raucous, we surmise, will keep their fur-lined red flannels in readiness.

Yet it might be worse. It is worse. Poland reports a blizzard that has spread a covering over the country of 18 inches of snow. That's the kind of May they're having there. But Warsaw isn't the old home town of the Browns.

Swinburne soliloquized about "the greenest growth of the Maytime." There was that girl who insisted on being called early "for I'm to be Queen of the May." How many of us—Andrew Lang as guide—

Want Maying in that ancient May Whose fallen flowers are fragrant yet,
And lingered by the fountain spray
With Aucassin and Nicolette?

The month of bud and bloom has been gray and chill. But after a Job-like chapter, perhaps May will yet be May.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, May 9. FROM all the fire and counter-fire regarding the continued life of NRA, one thing definitely emerges—politically the NRA is bad medicine.

This is why the Senate is so hostile. Democrats in the Senate want to steer clear of it for that reason. Republicans want to use it as campaign ammunition against the Democrats. Neither wants the risk of championing it.

Political fight is the main factor behind the Senate Finance Committee's vote to grant NRA a breathing spell only until next April. The committee did not dare flaunt the President's outright, by going the whole way and voting to junk NRA entirely, as all but a few members would have liked to do.

But it did the next thing to it. Its proposal would strip NRA authority to the bone; would limit its existence to such a brief period that the grave doubt of its chances to survive.

Members of the Senate committee are boasting openly that if their short-term program goes through it will be the beginning of the end for the Blue Eagle.

Administrations are not discussing the assertion. They know only too well how true it is.

Who Rules Diplomacy?

THE State Department at last has found something which will keep Ambassador Hugh Gibson both occupied and happy. He is to mediate the Chaco War in South America.

Most brilliant diplomatic star during the hectic Hoover days of moral-tumus disarmament and naval conferences, Hugh Gibson has vanished badly under the New Deal. He had spent too many week-ends fishing on the Rapidan. Roosevelt, not wishing to fire him, exiled him to Brazil as Ambassador.

There Gibson was most unhappy. Chief trouble was his wife, a native of Belgium, who failed to be moved from the American Embassy in Brussels, where she had been mistress for years. Brazil, to her, was wilderness. She fretted and fumed.

As a result, Gibson finally took her back to Europe. He got 60 days leave with pay. Then he got 30 days additional sick leave with pay.

Although nominally Ambassador to Brazil, he is still in Europe. Now the State Department will send him to Buenos Aires for the Chaco conference—and hopes Mrs. Gibson will like it.

Internal Revolt.

THE walkout of the auto workers is a declaration of war upon others besides the employers who refuse union recognition. It is also a rank-and-file uprising against A. F. of L. leadership.

The inside fact is that the A. F. of L. strongly disapproved of a strike in the industry as heartily as the auto magnates.

First they private doubted its chances of success and were fearful of the consequences of a defeat. Second, they were deathly afraid of possible reverberations among

General Johnson's Article

Let the Philippines Go and Keep Hands Off the Japanese "Buzz-Saw," Is His Advice.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON, WASHINGTON, May 9.

RESS dispatches say the little flurry of insurrection in Manila, with headquarters in Tokio, is important and has no Japanese connection.

As a revolution it probably doesn't amount to much, but as a symptom it is certainly worth noticing.

It is the official fiction to say that Japan wouldn't have the Philippines as a gift—that the Filipinos are united and wholly fit and ready for independence—that we can peacefully retire without obligation.

Our little brown brothers of the Philippines are not a compact people. They are not ready to maintain themselves as an separate nation. When we withdraw, the islands will be torn with internal strife. The new suzerain of Asia will find itself compelled to "step in" for the "peace of the Orient," and we had better decide right now whether any right or duty of ours runs so far as to try to prevent that.

For one, I think not. We shall have enough to do to watch the West Pacific without sticking our necks out in the East. If we want a long-drawn war on sea-borne commerce, the way to insure it is to keep on fingering that buzz-saw.

MRS. LOUIS KOENIGSBERG DIES

Funeral of Department Store Buyer's Wife Tomorrow.

Mrs. Mabel Cohen Koenigsberg, wife of Louis Koenigsberg, a buyer at Famous-Barr Co., died at Jewish Hospital last night of shock resulting from an operation yesterday morning for a brain tumor. She had been ill several weeks.

Mrs. Koenigsberg was 49 years old and resided with her husband at 5795 Pershing Avenue. She had lived in St. Louis about 16 years, coming here from Buffalo, N.Y. Surviving also are two sons, Harry and Louis Koenigsberg Jr. Funeral services will be held at the Mayer Funeral Home, 4356 Lindell Boulevard, at 2 p.m. tomorrow. Interment will be private.

The Koenigsbergs do not share our new alarm—"dollar diplomacy"—they call it "yen yearning." The Philippines are in their hands.

DELEGATE

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
MRS. WILLIAM H. ARMSTRONG.

VICE-PRESIDENT of the St. Louis Junior League, who will be a delegate to the annual conference of the Associated Junior Leagues of America, to be held in San Francisco, May 13 to 17. Mrs. Henry Hitchcock, treasurer of the St. Louis Junior League, will be the other delegate.

MISS EMILIE SWEENEY DIES; LEADER IN ANTI-DRY FIGHT

Recent changes made in the appearance of the Capitol in the Statuary Hall are not the first that historic chamber has seen.

Some years ago the walls of the large, vaulted room were covered with a painted imitation of Sienna marble. Scattered over this decoration were a number of painted pictures, among them likenesses of Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley and Mark Hanna.

Only one of the pictures, however, proved a real drawing card. It occupied a most inconspicuous place amid these notables, but was pointed out by all Capitol guides.

Complaints finally caused the Capitol Architect to remove the picture. To do this he had to abolish the entire painted marble decoration.

Reason for the censorship was that the design was a full-length nude.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE much-hailed "lifting" of the gag rule in the House is just so much hot air. The Democratic rulers have not rescinded the rule, merely did not enforce a full gag when the Social Security and Banking Bills were considered. The gag rule remains intact, ready for use whenever they deem it necessary. . . . The RFC took in $6,000,000 in March than it paid out. It made loans amounting to $40,339,664 and received payment on debts of $46,682,732. . . . Philadelphia's Democratic Frank Dorsey holds a record for injuries in athletics. Dorsey, who was a five-sport man in college, bears scars from the following: a broken ankle in basketball, a broken collarbone in football, six weeks in bed from a "floor burn" in basketball, another six weeks picking cinders out of his thigh from a track meet, and two months of incapacity from a wrenched knee in soccer.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S COUNCIL INDORSES ROOSEVELT POLICIES

Recovery Program Characterized as Following "Closely the Teachings of Christ."

President Roosevelt's recovery program, characterized as following "closely the teachings of Christ and His Church," was endorsed by the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women in a meeting at Hotel Statler yesterday.

The council also adopted a protest against conditions in Mexico, to be sent to the President: a denunciation of modes of dress commonly used in "athletics and in strip-float shows," and a condemnation of certain motion pictures said to be "affecting the morals of our youth by teaching a philosophy of life that is sinister and insidious."

Our little brown brothers of the Philippines are not a compact people. They are not ready to maintain themselves as an separate nation. When we withdraw, the islands will be torn with internal strife. R. W. IRWIN AND DR. GERLING NOMINATED FOR CIVIC AWARD

Prize of $1000 Awarded Annually to St. Louis for Outstanding Service.

Robert W. Irwin of the Bureau for Homeless Men, and Dr. Henry J. Gerling, superintendent of instruction of the public schools, have been nominated for the 1935 St. Louis Award, a $1000 prize donated annually to the citizen of metropolitan St. Louis deemed to have rendered the most outstanding service to the community.

Members of the St. Louis Award Committee, who are receiving nominations, are J. Lionberger Davis, Dean Isador Loeb, Dr. George T. Moore, Charles Nagel, the Rev. Alphonse Schwitalla and Gilbert Harris.

The award, donated anonymously, went to Comptroller Nolte last year, to Dr. Max A. Goldstein in 1933, and to Tom K. Smith in 1932, when it was established.

Mrs. Koenigsberg was 49 years old and resided with her husband at 5795 Pershing Avenue. She had lived in St. Louis about 16 years, coming here from Buffalo, N.Y. ## SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

D. SELDEN P. SPENCER, 4425 McPherson avenue, has engaged a large cottage at Lanesville, Mass., near Gloucester, Mass., for four months, and will depart June 5 to take possession. He will be accompanied by his daughters, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Louise, and by his sisters, Mrs. Laura Spencer Edmunds and her daughter, Miss Dean Edmunds. The house is on a rocky ledge overlooking the Atlantic and has seven rock ledges swimming pools on the property. Nearby is the studio of Walker Hancock, well-known sculptor, son of W. Scott Hancock and a nephew of Mrs. Edmunds and Dr. Spencer.

En route to the little New England village, Miss Dean Edmunds will stop in New York for a visit with Mrs. Robert Marvin Nelson, formerly Miss Daphne Brown of St. Louis.

Mrs. Chester Ellis Wright has been announced winner in a ticket selling campaign sponsored by the Junior League for disposing of admissions to the Junior League Follies opening tomorrow night at the Municipal Auditorium. The award, a railroad ticket to New York and return, will be made at the cabaret to be held at Hotel Jefferson after the final performance Saturday night. Mrs. Walter Westerner Sibley will be given a gift certificate for second place.

The campaign was confined to Junior League members, with Miss Christine Jones, chairman of the committee in charge.

Mrs. Theodore Moreno, 24 Brentmoor Park, will be hostess at an informal tea Saturday afternoon at her home.

Miss Ruth Slattery of St. Louis, graduated from Miss Hall's School, Pittsfield, Mass., and made her debut Dec. 26, 1933, at a supper dance at the Waldorf-Astoria. She is a member of the Junior League. Mr. Coonley is a graduate of Deerfield Academy, and was a member of the class of 1930 at Harvard.

The wedding will take place June 8 at Trinity Church, Hewlett, Long Island, in the presence of the immediate families. The ceremony will be followed by a small reception at the Rockaway Hunt Club.

Mrs. Grover H. Poos, 7284 Mary Avenue, and her sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Powers of Winnetka, Ill., left yesterday for a two weeks' visit in Asheville and Charleston, S.C. Mrs. Powers will spend a week in St. Louis on their return.

Among the summer cottagers at Charlevoix, Mich., this season will be Mrs. John Wallace Fristoe, 18 Washington terrace, who expects to leave for the resort about the middle of June.

Mrs. George L. Corlis of Hotel Chase plans to go West in June to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shipley of San Francisco. Mr. Corlis may make the trip also.

Mrs. Corlis will spend the summer months on the West Coast.

Thursday buffet luncheons at the St. Louis Country Club, which began last week for the late spring season, attracted about 75 guests to the club today. The largest party was given by Mrs. Adrian Lamb of the Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Reese Jr., who have been in Europe for six weeks on their honeymoon, will remain there two months longer. For the last month they have been guests of Mr. Reese's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. E. Virgil Neal at his Chateau D'Azur at Nice. They will remain at the chateau until June 8, when they will depart for Paris and London with Mr. and Mrs. Neal.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Pettus of the St. Louis Country Club grounds, with their daughter, Miss Irene, and son, James Pettus, will arrive today in San Francisco, Cal., following a trip around the world. They plan to cruise through the Panama Canal to New York, where they will spend a short time before returning home. The latter part of March they were guests in Hong Kong, China, of Mrs. Pettus' niece, Mrs. Charles McQueen Gee, and her family. She was formerly Miss Matilda Moulton of St. Louis.

Also in the party, which sailed in January, are Mrs. John C. Roberts, 6330 McPherson avenue; Mrs. Frederick W. Lehman of the Park Plaza, and Mrs. H. H. Squar of Cincinnati, O.

Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, 39 Portland place, is expected home today from a visit in Kansas City, Mo., with her mother, Mrs. Edward Berry.

Mrs. George Craign of Worcester, Mass., who has been the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Newton R. Wilson, 4 Brentmoor Park, left for her home today.

The council was addressed by Archbishop Glennon, the Rev. John J. Butler, Peter Kasiel, St. Louis

Administrative; Mrs. Sarah Hooley, national president of the Rev. William F. Mullally, and Mgr. P. P. Crane, Mrs. Edward C. McGrath, president, and the other officers of the council, were re-elected.

That we can and should retire, financially or otherwise, there is not the slightest question in the island. The two other branches of the organization are just a lot of political verbiage.

If you look at a map of the east coast of Asia, you will see a chain of islands from Saghalien to Borneo, stretching across it like a great belt. That belt guards the Pacific.

The new suzerain of Asia will find itself compelled to "step in" for the "peace of the Orient," and we had better decide right now whether any right or duty of ours runs so far as to try to prevent that.

For one, I think not. We shall have enough to do to watch the West Pacific without sticking our necks out in the East. If we want a long-drawn war on sea-borne commerce, the way to insure it is to keep on fingering that buzz-saw.

Prize of $1000 Awarded Annually to St. Louis for Outstanding Service.

Robert W. Irwin of the Bureau for Homeless Men, and Dr. Henry J. Gerling, superintendent of instruction of the public schools, have been nominated for the 1935 St. Louis Award, a $1000 prize donated annually to the citizen of metropolitan St. Louis deemed to have rendered the most outstanding service to the community.

Members of the St. Louis Award Committee, who are receiving nominations, are J. Lionberger Davis, Dean Isador Loeb, Dr. George T. Moore, Charles Nagel, the Rev. Alphonse Schwitalla and Gilbert Harris.

The award, donated anonymously, went to Comptroller Nolte last year, to Dr. Max A. Goldstein in 1933, and to Tom K. Smith in 1932, when it was established.

Mrs. Koenigsberg was 49 years old and resided with her husband at 5795 Pershing Avenue. She had lived in St. Louis about 16 years, coming here from Buffalo, N.Y. Surviving also are two sons, Harry and Louis Koenigsberg Jr. Funeral services will be held at the Mayer Funeral Home, 4356 Lindell Boulevard, at 2 p.m. tomorrow. Interment will be private.

NEW INCOME LEVY PROPOSED AS PART OF SALES TAX BILL

would mean a repeated pyramiding of the tax, the levy extending in a vicious circle.

As one Senator described it:

"A lawyer receives a $100 fee and pays a tax on it. He pays the $100 to his stenographer for her services and she pays the tax on the same $100. She spends the $100 for clothes and the merchant who buys from her pays the tax on the same $100. The merchant buys $100 worth of goods from the wholesaler and the wholesaler pays the tax. He buys $100 worth of goods from the manufacturer and he pays the tax. The manufacturer pays the $100 to an employee and the employee pays the tax, and on and on, until finally somebody who gets a $100 employs the lawyer who started the chain and it begins all over again."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Explanation by Clark.

In explaining his amendment Clark said he had hoped the bill would be shaped for a straight out tax on retail sales, limiting the tax base to include the smallest number of persons possible, but providing that the tax should be passed on to the consumer, thus making it a tax on the final sale to the consumer.

It seemed, he said, that a majority of the Senate was opposed to that form of tax and it appeared the Senate intended to apply the tax on the privilege of doing business.

"As it is now written," he said, "the whole tax burden is placed on the retail merchants and on the purveyors of a few forms of services. It is virtually impossible for them to pass on the larger part of the tax. I think this singling out of one class of persons to bear the whole relief and old age pension burden of the state is unfair. The profit of the merchant is only his wage. I see no more reason to tax the wages than to tax the wages of everybody else."

Clark said he had arrived at no estimate as to the amount of revenue which would be obtained if his amendment should be included in the bill. He said he had been unable to find any statistics which would be used as a basis for calculation.

Present graduated income tax, with rates ranging from 1 to 4 per cent, yields about $3,000,000 a year. The exemptions, however, are $1000 for a single person and $2000 for the head of a family, and many deductions for business losses, taxes and interest paid, charitable donations, etc., are authorized. Under the Clark amendment the only deduction from gross income would be $600 a year.

The Senate yesterday discussed exemption from the tax of receipts derived from newspaper circulation and from advertising contracted for outside the state, but action was postponed. Senator Briggs of Macon attempted to have this change made in the bill several days ago, but his amendment failed of passage. It was taken up again on a motion by Senator Brogan of St. Louis to reconsider that vote. The reconsideration motion was adopted, but because of objection by Senator Casey of Kansas City and Senator Crouse of St. Joseph, a second vote on the Briggs amendment was delayed.

Senator McReynolds of Carthage offered an amendment to change the tax from a privilege tax to a straight out sales tax and to prohibit its absorption by the merchant, but he withdrew it after Senator Shotwell of St. Louis County raised a point of order, based on a technicality of procedure. McReynolds said he expected to submit it.

Assailing the Banking Act of 1933, he said, "This action on the

"I need not repeat to you that the Federal Reserve Bank no more he said. "It is a private corporation owned by a group of private individuals for the purpose of privately printing and controlling the money of the United States for the private profit of the profiteers."

"But said to say, this Federal Reserve banking system has been rendered more powerful, has been permitted to become more greedy than under all preceding administrations."

"From 1913 until 1933 part of the

Congressman William Lemke of South Dakota told the audience that "this nation is still hungry

"This country does not belong to but belongs to the people," Lemke said. "We Congressmen are but the

AT CLEVELAND, O.

Says Depression Was Caused by Federal Reserve System 'More Than Any Other Single Factor.'

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin told a crowd of 24,000 here last night that the Federal Reserve System caused the depression "more than any other single factor."

"The National Union for Social Justice," he said, "demands the expulsion of this prostitute, this Federal Reserve banking system, from our midst and the establishment of a central Government bank, owned by the people and controlled by the people directly through Congress."Speaking in the home town of Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Father Coughlin rebuked the Senator for his vote against the Patman bonus bill and predicted the end of his political career if he "does not see fit to alter his judgment." He also criticized Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York as "a traitor to the people."

FORMER ANNE CANNON TESTIFIES FOR FATHER

Denying Alienation Charge,
She Says She Married Second Husband for Home.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 9.—The $250,000 alienation suit of F. Brandon Smith Jr., against his former father-in-law, Joseph F. Cannon, Concord textile manufacturer, neared conclusion today after testimony of the three principals had been given.

Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, who married Smith, 29-year-old real estate man in 1932, was the last to testify yesterday. She denied her father influenced her to obtain her divorce in May, 1934. She smiled broadly as she told the jury: "Brandon was dumb and I was dumb for living with him."

After Judge W. F. Harding had quieted laughter in the courtroom, she continued: "The only reason I married him was to get a home. I never loved him."

Cannon testified that his daughter now was living in Philadelphia, engaged in welfare work.

Whitlock questioned her at length about Smith's visit to Hot Springs, where the divorce was granted.
She admitted he was in her room for several hours and that they conversed, but denied she was in a "friendly mood." Whitlock continued: "As a matter of fact Brandon did put you to bed that night, didn't he?" "He did not!" Mrs.
Smith announced.

Cannon's Testimony.

Cannon spent two and a half hours in the witness chair during which he admitted numerous wild escapades on his part, during the time of his daughter's married life with Smith. The eccentric millionaire, now well past middle age, testified under Whitlock's questioning that he was drunk numerous times and on several occasions had been arrested and jailed.

Cannon testified that his daughter was living in Philadelphia,
engaged in welfare work.

DUSTED FIREMEN CITE "RECOMMENDATIONS"

Petition Contends Insurance Superintendent's Figures Give Insufficient Information.

A petition was filed in Circuit Judge O'Malley's court by the Continental Life Insurance Co. yesterday, objecting to the report of State Superintendent of Insurance R. Emmet O'Malley that its assets are impaired to the extent of $2,135,540. The company has been in the charge of the Insurance Superintendent under a rehabilitation order since last May.

The petition contends that the Commissioner's report failed to furnish any figures reflecting gains or losses and without such information it is impossible to arrive at proper knowledge of conditions. The Superintendent recently asked for instructions of the court relative to whether the property should be sold in bulk or in pieces re-insured in another company. Lowell L. Sparling, attorney for the company, has stated that the Superintendent's application would be opposed. Ed Mays, its president, wants the business continued.

At the end of the executive session, shortly before midnight, Mayor Fels announced to about 75 citizens who had waited outside, that the matter would be "considered" further and the Council's decision announced in a few days.

Michael J. Mulvey, attorney for the Firemen's Union, who appeared in behalf of the men, said mandamus proceedings would be filed if the men were not reinstated.

Recommendations Exhibited.

Chief evidence submitted at the open meeting were letters of recommendation for new jobs exhibited by the dismissed firemen. James Hanlon, George Loeukas and Herbert Barth. The letters, bearing the city's seal and the name of Mayor Fels signed at the bottom, said each man had left the service "through political re-alignment only;" that each had given "excellent service" and was recommended "without reservation."

Mayor Fels vehemently denied having written or signed the letters and called as witness Deputy City Clerk Elise Harrison, who admitted she had signed the letters, "just like she signed much routine correspondence," after they had been dictated to her by City Clerk John Hogan. The latter then explained he wrote the letters, "using the words I thought ought to be used," not knowing they were to be used "politically." He said he had intended them for the Mayor's reading and signature.

Reads City Ordinance.

Mulvey, who was a member of the St. Louis Fire Department 23 years, then delivered a lecture, to the accompaniment of much applause, on the importance of continuing in service experienced firemen and read ordinances requiring that firemen be dismissed only for cause and prohibiting political appointments.

He then called the dismissed men to the front, each of whom demanded reinstatement. Barth accompanied his demands with a vigorous harangue. Facing the crowd and pounding his fist on the railing he shouted, "I ask for the job from which I was illegally fired. I was asked to play ball around here but when it was tossed to me I refused to catch it. I want reinstatement as a fireman and when I say fireman, I mean fireman, not political ally."

"I was fired because of failure to shell out for beer and campaign money; for failure to paint campaign signs and to solicit votes. I want my job back as badly as the Mayor and the Councilmen wanted it."

Impromptu Vote.

An elderly man got up and, before anybody could intervene, took a vote of the assemblage on the question of reinstatement. The result was a roar of ayes and a few muffled noes. It was then that the Mayor decided it was time for an executive session but his voice was drowned out in the applause which followed somebody's question, "Why shouldn't the citizens know in open meeting why the firemen were dismissed?"

Nevertheless, the executive meeting was ordered and the Council retired to the Mayor's office, accompanied by Mulvey, A. F. Wessely, another union official, and newspaper reporters. There Mayor Fels chided Mulvey for not having brought the matter before the Council privately, "without all this demonstration."

The Mayor then called in the three firemen who were not dismissed, and also several policemen, none of whom, however, could think of anything against those fired, except that one was "kind of hard to get along with" and wouldn't work with the others in doing porter work at the City Hall.

"Bunch of Hard Losers."

It was mentioned also that some of the firemen objected to policemen assisting at fires, though that has been the custom for years. Fels said the chief reason for dismissal was to bring about harmony in the department. He also complained that the dismissed men had made many derogatory remarks about councilmen since they were fired. "Those fellows are just a bunch of hard losers," he said, adding that they were responsible for the crowd at the meeting.

The executive session ended with Mulvey and Wessely commenting that "there hasn't been much evidence against the efficiency of these men." Mulvey then appeared before the remaining members of the audience, asked them to "be patient" until the matter was settled and said the union would do everything possible for the men dismissed.

Hornor Fails to Stay Executed.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 9.—Gov. Horner said today he would not act on appeals for reprieve before him in the electrocution at Joliet prison tomorrow morning of three men convicted of the murder of Charles Bundy, cashier of the Leonore State Bank, during a holdup in January. The men to die are John Hauff, Fred Germer and Arthur Thiele. Execution was first set for April 11, but stays were granted to May 10 to enable their attorneys to take appeals to the Supreme Court. Last week superseas requests were denied.

H. ARTHUR BRERETON NAMED COMMODORE OF SEA SCOUTS

Chemical Company President chosen to succeed Henry Holbrook, killed by Train.

H. Arthur Brereton, 7724 Country Club court, Clayton, was appointed Commodore of the Sea Scouts Division of the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, at a meeting of the Executive Board of the council today. He succeeds Henry Holbrook, who was killed by a train in Webster Groves, April 27.

Brereton, who is president of the Consolidated Chemical Laboratories, Inc., has served the last three years as a member of the Sea Scout Committee of the council, and last year attended the regional regatta at Keokuk, Ia., where the St. Louis sailing crew was awarded first place. He entered the scouting movement as a volunteer in 1932.

For the last two years he has been sailing master of the Sea Scout base at Creve Coeur Lake, in charge of all sailing races. His three sons are members of scout troops.

Gangster Held in Rumania.

By the Associated Press.

CERNAUTI, Rumania, May 9.—Israel Burger, alleged to be a former member of Al Capone's Chicago gang, was arrested here yesterday on suspicion of killing a 20-year-old girl. Burger, police said, had been sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment in the United States, but was released after five years and deported to Rumania.

49 Pictures by 36 Persons Picked for Annual Exhibit.

The annual exhibition of paintings by artists of St. Louis and the vicinity opened yesterday at City Art Museum in Forest Park to remain until June 12.

The 49 pictures on display were chosen by a jury of Chicago and Kansas City critics from among 338 submitted for their consideration. Most of the 36 artists represented have but one picture on view, but in some instances two pictures by the same artist are shown.

Fifteen of the pictures were selected by the jury for the larger exhibition of American art which will be held at the museum next December. Noted artists from various parts of the country will exhibit their work in the December show.

SENATE'S WORK
AND RAIL FIGHTS

he went on, "these amendments would be unnecessary. I could go into any court that is living in the present stage of civilization and get a ruling that the existing act empowers the TVA to build transmission lines and buy up existing facilities. But it appears that we have got to make the act lawyer-proof.

"The question whether the TVA should have power to build transmission lines was before Congress and kept the bill in conference during two sessions. We finally won out. Without the power to build transmission lines, the act isn't worth the paper it is written on. What use is it to generate power if you can't transmit it to the consumer?"

Clash Over "Clients."

A suggestion by Norris that public utility holding companies were "clients" of Austin, drew a warm edict. Norris, answering charges by Austin against TVA, said he would show that one section of the law was "put in for the benefit of the Senator's clients."

"Mr. President," Austin said, rising, "I resent that insult. I rise to a question of personal privilege. I have noticed aspersions of this character by the Senator throughout his speech. I want to say I am not counsel for any public utility.

I was before I qualified for United States Senator, but as soon as I knew I was likely to be Senator I withdrew from that employment and I am not counsel for any such client."

Austin then read a previous statement by Norris suggesting that, if a certain thing happened, "there will be some attorney standing in the Senate who thinks more of his holding company than his country," then said: "Those statements are fully false. Those insinuations are fully false."

Where Situation Is Serious.

Meanwhile, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, the Democratic whip, told the writer that, if Congress continued to legislate at its present rate of speed, or lack of it, it would be in session after Aug. 1.

President Roosevelt has hoped to have an adjournment by June 6. That now seems quite out of the question.

Among the major legislative proposals which are being held up, Senator Lewis listed the following:

Continuation of NRA, Wagner labor disputes bill, holding company bill, railroad reorganization, social security legislation, and tax measures.

The blockade, of course, is vastly intensified by the bitter controversy over the soldier bonus.

In at least two instances, the situation is serious. The present NRA expires June 18, and any proposal to continue it, in no matter what form, is certain to result in prolonged debate. Expiration of the present act before the enactment of new legislation would, in the opinion of many observers, precipitate a condition bordering on industrial chaos.

"In plain language, what is needed is enforcement of the anti-trust laws, not their suspension.

No Security for Capital.

"In saying this I recognize that I run counter to the opinion of a considerable business group. I believe, however, that their view is a short-sighted one and necessarily influenced by their own immediate problems. In these difficult times they are anxious to escape the rigors of the competitive process. But it is axiomatic that in a capitalistic society there can be no security for capital. Such a society is never static. It undergoes a constant process of growth and decay."

Delay on Another Front.

Meantime, the prospect of additional controversy and delay appeared on another front, the issue being the Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana, resolution providing for a sweeping investigation of the financial affairs of all railroads. Approved by the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, the resolution was sent to the Committee on Audit and Control, for authority to appropriate $25,000 to defray the cost of the investigation.

This very conservative committee held executive sessions, at which it heard Jesse Jones, head of the RFC, which has loaned hundreds of millions to the railroads, and Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Securities Commission. It is understood that Jones approved the proposed inquiry, while Kennedy contended that the Securities Act had rendered new legislation unnecessary.

Of the four members of the Audit Committee which considered the resolution, Byrnes of South Carolina and Bachman of Tennessee, Democrats, favored the original form, while Tydings (Dem.), Maryland, and Townsend (Rep.), Delaware, demanded that it be drastically modified.

What Tydings Has to Say.

"I want to get the Government out of the railroad business," said Tydings today. "To place the roads under fire, including the soundest, would prevent private investors from buying railroad securities, and would keep the Government in the business indefinitely. I have no objection to the exposure of unsound or fraudulent railroad financing, but the investigation should be confined to railroads that are under suspicion."

In consequence of the vigorous opposition of Tydings and Townsend, the Interstate Commerce Committee consented to substantial modification of the resolution, eliminating many of the specific financial details which Senator Wheeler proposed to investigate.

Tydings, however, was not satisfied. Wheeler's resolution proposed that the inquiry be conducted by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, who is Federal co-ordinator of railroads, and who has persistently declared that the "water" must be squeezed out of the railroads' financial structure before they can be operated on a sound financial basis.

Tydings insists that the whole Interstate Commerce Commission shall decide who shall conduct the inquiry. It is not likely that this suggestion would be acceptable to Wheeler, and he is accustomed to

DIVORCE FOR ELISSA LANDI,
SHE CITES HUSBAND'S ADVICEMovie Star Says English Lawyer Told Her to Associate With Other Men.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Elissa Landi, motion picture star and writer, obtained a divorce in Judge William S. Baird's court today from John Cecil Lawrence, London barrister, after she testified her husband had told her to associate with other men.

The actress appeared deeply affected as she testified.

Miss Landi, who brought the suit under her legal name, Elizabeth Marie Lawrence, testified her husband told her of his asserted affairs with other women and suggested he would not object to her conducting herself with similar freedom. Miss Landi said she was greatly shocked at her husband's suggestions, which, she said, he also made concerning her to her mother, Countess Caroline Zanardi-Landi.

A solicitor for Lawrence notified the County Clerk the barrister had filed his own suit for divorce, and conceded the Los Angeles court had no jurisdiction.

"I asked Mr. Lawrence to come to California," Miss Landi told Judge Baird. "I hoped he would like it. I even got him a job. He didn't like it and refused to stay. He never supported me. For three years I sent him $100 a month and this was continued after we separated, in hope of a reconciliation."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 9.—The Air Ministry began today to have every Berlin resident fly over the city at least once as part of its program to encourage aviation.

Nazis have been informed with increasing frequency in recent months that on certain dates they must buy lottery tickets, purchase a bit of amber, take a trip or read more books "because national unity demands the participation of every German."

The scheme has been used to promote marriages, encourage house repairs, stimulate the sale of Nazi newspapers and increase the sales of the radio, automobile, furniture and textile industries.

more than outweighed by the greater efficiency of the individual under a more vigorous and vigilant personal direction. If this greater efficiency is re-enforced by freeing competition from artificial restraints, concentration of economic power need no longer constitute a major problem.

"In plain language, what is needed is enforcement of the anti-trust laws, not their suspension.

Similarly, a number of tax measures will expire July 1. Among these are the so-called "special duties" on coal, copper, oil and lumber, which were written into the tax bill two years ago on the strength of a long-rolling deal in both Houses. Disguised as "taxes," they really are tariffs. Efforts to extend them will meet with stern opposition.

TWO OIL COMPANY OFFICERS

CHARGED WITH CODE VIOLATION

54 Indictments Against 79 Defendants

Returned by Federal Grand Jury.

Fifty-four indictments against 79 defendants were returned yesterday by a Federal grand jury at East St. Louis.

Thomas W. Martin and Harold T.

Martin, officers of the Martin Oil

Co. of Carbondale, Ill., were charged with violation of the NRA oil code by giving coupons redeemable in merchandise and with working employees 84 hours a week, when the code permits only 48.

The grand jury indicted 50 persons for violation of the internal revenue laws by illegal manufacture or possession of liquor; five were charged with violation of the Dyer Act; eight with violation of the counterfeiting laws; one with making false affidavits; two with stealing Government property; three with violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act; two with violation of the Mann Act; two with theft of the mails and one for writing extortion notes.

Bert Brown of Fairfield, Ill., charged with violation of the internal revenue laws, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five months in the Leavenworth Federal prison for violation of Dyer Act. Three indictments were suppressed pending arrest of defendants, and six no true bills were returned.

ROBBERS KILL MAN WHO FINDS THEM IN HOME

Wife and Daughter of Illmo, Mo., Victim and Two Neighbors, Held While Intruders Seek Money.

By the Associated Press. ILLMO, Mo., May 9.—W. T. Carlton, 50 years old, Cotton Belt Railroad pumper, was shot to death last night and his wife and daughter, Juanita, 20, and two neighbors were held prisoners for nearly half an hour at their home near here, while two killers ransacked the home for money and repeatedly threatened to kill the four prisoners. They later fled, using Carlton's automobile (a 1932 Chevrolet sports model with Missouri license 126-714).

Returning home shortly after 9 o'clock after a visit with Mrs. Carlton's mother at Cape Girardeau, Carlton noticed lights were on in his home. He asked Mrs. Carlton and their daughter to remain outside while he went to investigate.

As Carlton entered the front door he was shot twice without warning and died immediately. Mrs. Carlton and Miss Juanita ran to his side. They were covered with pistols and the robbers threatened to kill them if they made an outcry.

Mr. and Mrs. John Silcox, neighbors, who heard the shooting, entered to investigate, and were lined up against the wall.

Removing Carlton's pistol, which he held in his hand, the robbers continued their hunt for money. They took about $15 they found in the house. Miss Juanita's wrist watch, and after warning the prisoners to keep quiet for 30 minutes, left in the Carlton automobile. They were closely followed by another automobile which the Carltons said was parked near the house.

Coroner H. J. Welch said an inquest would not be necessary. Sheriff Joe Anderson said he believed the robbers were "local talent."

Carlton had been pumper for the railroad for 20 years. His home is near the Mississippi River, just east of Illmo.

State Highway Police described one of the robbers as 30 to 35 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds and wearing a dark coat and light trousers.

Join in Washington Conference on "Spiritual and Moral Recovery."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Walter W. Head of St. Louis, chairman of the National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, said today the great affliction of our country and of the world today is selfishness."

Head opened a conference of his committee, which he said seeks to work out a program by which Catholics, Protestants and Jews can unite to bring recovery of "moral and spiritual values." He said the "cure for selfishness is divine love, accepted and operative in the lives of men."

Clever? Yes. Afraid? No.

No Prize Editorial.

Four Red Rats.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1935.)
DISTINGUISHED clergymen say: "President Roosevelt is too clever a politician to veto the bonus."

The President may decide not to veto the bonus, but not because he's "too clever a politician." That would mean that he is afraid to veto it. The President understands politics, but does not act through fear. That emotion does not influence him. You may know him very slightly, and know that.

Editor and Publisher "would appreciate any comment on the failure of the Pulitzer advisory board to select a 1934 editorial prize winner."

Perhaps no editorial written in 1934 deserved a prize. That could happen, as the late Joseph Pulitzer would have told you. Once he cut his editorial page to one column because he didn't want to print trash. He knew good editorial work.

John Wood, bored, listening to fulsome praise of an editor who was about to speak, looked around quizzically, saying "may be he did not come," pretending not to know who was meant.

Maybe no editorial prize winner came in 1934.

A rat exterminator in far Rockaway, Salomon Simon, caught four red rats, really bright red, and thought them strange enough "to be worth something to somebody." Nobody seems to want them. Exterminator Simon says: "It would be too bad to exterminate them."

If they were human instead of rats, they might be made useful. You might persuade them to adopt some religion, different from that of rats of another color, put them back in the hole and let them start a religious-rat fight.

Such a fight between Hindus and Mohammedans in India makes it easy for England to govern.

If the four red rats could be persuaded that they possessed the only true religion, and that it was their holy duty to destroy all rats of other colors and other religions, that would help solve the rat problem.

Amelia Earhart, first to fly alone non-stop from Hawaii to California, is first to make a non-stop flight from Mexico City to New York.

"A little child shall lead them." She is the little child that leads all masculine pilots, and that would seem to dispose of foolish talk about women's inferiority in courage and physical ability.

The female sex is the courageous sex. It has been too busy creating the human race and civilizing men to show what it can do; but wait.

Women will have wide hat brims this summer. Pleasant news. You get tired of women's heads, closely trimmed all round the outside, like an apple pie.

Wide brims are beautiful; if women would wear them with long broad blue ribbons hanging down their backs, white wide, dotted cotton dresses with big blue sashes, tied in a bow behind, old-fashioned shoes with heels a quarter of an inch high, how restful that would be.

Flying by commercial airlines in the United States in March amounted to more than 24,000,000 passenger air-miles, nearly three times as many as in March last year.

With such figures, an occasional crash means little. Nevertheless, important airlines should conscientiously study the parachute problem, particularly the one para-crate for one airplane possibility. Even the power to reduce the speed of a crash by 50 or 75 per cent, might save lives.

BRITISH ECONOMIST SAYS U. S. HAS TRIED TO DO TOO MUCH

Sir Josiah Stamp Tells Chicago Club That Reform Should Have Awaited Recovery.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Sir Josiah Stamp, British railroad magnate and economist, declared yesterday the United States was in an "economic mess" because it tried to combine recovery attempts with reform.

He spoke at the Chicago Club, introduced to his audience by Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former Republican Vice-President.

Sir Josiah said codes were "an admission of trying to do 10 years' work in 10 months," and added: "They were confronted in March, 1933, with the question of rescue, recovery and reform. The trouble is they tried to do all three things before, which might have aided great recovery occurred, has hampered up the program and has made it more difficult."

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE new mother quite naturally regards her suddenly acquired responsibilities with considerable dismay. What is she going to do with this little living creature in order to keep it in the pink of condition? How is it to be fed, and how often? What is the technique of bathing it? What kind of clothes, and how many, should it wear? How long should it sleep? How much air should it have?

Well, all these things are important, and there it is right and a wrong way for doing all of them, although for Logan Clendening's mother's comfort it may be said that Nature is able to do pretty well with the slightest amount of encouragement, provided the baby is healthy from the beginning. Nature food enough, plenty of sunshine and air, plenty of sleep, a cleansing bath, even if not too regular, and enough clothes to keep it warm; it will thrive surprisingly.

Dangers.

The greatest danger to which the baby is exposed is one that is not frequently thought of—that is, the infectious diseases. And there is one thing that the new family must plan to do, which is to set a time for vaccinating the baby against smallpox and diphtheria.

The summary of all rules for the purpose of keeping the baby healthy, as laid down by an eminent children's specialist, is as follows:

"1. Skilled medical and nursing care of the mother before, during, and after the birth of the baby, and especial attention to its physical examination, nutrition and daily hygiene.

"2. Establishment of breast feeding, and its continuation for at least six or seven months, at regular nursing periods of three or four hours.

Habits.

"3. Supplementary feeding with simple mixtures of cow's milk, pasteurized or boiled, when prescribed by a physician after a thorough effort to carry on breast feeding.

"4. Fresh air day and night.

"5. Regulation of body temperature by suitable clothing and proper heating apparatus.

"6. Scrupulous daily attention to cleanliness of the baby.

"7. Regular hours for sleep.

"8. Formation of good habits from the very first."

To many of these there will be some exceptions. Especially in the way of feeding, because the mother cannot need amplification—what for instance is "suitable" clothing? It will be the purpose of the articles this week to enlarge upon this simple summary, and explain the technique of the different procedures.

Willy Nilly Has The Idea That He Is Charming

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE Indians were not dancing now. They were gathered around in a half-circle back of Big Chief Eagle who was a magnificent looking chief, dressed in clothes such as the Pueblo Indians had never dreamed they would see. But that was the trouble. Were they dreaming this?

"I may be dreaming," continued Willy Nilly, "that I'm seeing these Indians arriving and hearing their chief speak to us."

"But how could I be dreaming that I'm hearing you say this and you're talking over whether it's a dream or not with me?" answered Rip.

"It's quite possible you're not really answering me, but that I'm only dreaming that you are," said Willy Nilly.

"No, I'm really answering you," harked Rip. "I'll give you a wide nhip and you'll know you're awake."

"Ouch!" said Willy Nilly. "I suppose I can't be dreaming, but it is all so very, very strange."

Willy Nilly was more puzzled than ever. Then to his surprise Jelly Bear began to speak in a loud voice.

"You're not dreaming, Willy Nilly! I, Jelly Bear, your bear who came to you these several years gone now, who came to you and took your jelly you had made from juicy apples and who ate it without thought but with great appetite, and you forgave and let me take this my home. And to this I brought my Honey Bear bride, and our cubs were given home here too."

"You are not dreaming, Willy Nilly."

"I never heard Jelly Bear speak like that before," said wondering Willy Nilly.

JOAN BLONDELL

By H. H. NIEMEYER

CHAPTER TWO.

HOLLYWOOD, May 8. DROPPING Joan Blondell's baby for a moment—just figuratively, of course. Try and drop it or even pick it up while Joan is around and see how quickly this fun-loving star can cloud up and rain. But putting aside the infant for a time suppose we get back to the point in Joan's life where she felt that fate had been performing some of its tricks.

When she took a part in a stock production of "No, No Nannette" in Dallas, she took the stage name of "Inez Holmes." This was done, she explains, because her parents had decided she must not carry on professionally. Later, when she was fighting for a chance to get a job on Broadway, she could have used some real "Joan Blondell" billing records. But she didn't have them. They tried to tell her that she had really been the "Inez Holmes" who had played "Nannette" in stock.

Then came an experience which Joan considers one of the funniest in her whole career—the winning of a bathing beauty contest. Here's how she tells it:

"The show had closed in Dallas and I was planning to go back to Denton, where my parents and sister were (my brother had run away and got married, meanwhile, when I met her) who suggested that we enter the Bathing Beauty Contest. It seems the first prize was to be named Miss Dallas. Also, the winner would get $2000 in cash and a trip to Atlantic City.

"I bought a bathing suit and entered. What is more, I won. So with a phone Southern accent—a Bronx inflection would never have suited a Southern gal as you all may know—I went on to Atlantic City. I believe "Miss Tulsa" won the first prize there as "Miss America" or something. At any rate, I won the second prize. That's when I started out to crash Broadway."

With Joan going to New York, the family went elsewhere, especially when Ma and Pa Blondell learned that their little blonde baby had a mind of her own, and a stubborn streak. So, knowing that her store of prize money would have to be spent frugally till she landed, the young embryonic star, like many another Broadway hopeful, got a studio apartment in Greenwich Village. She split a place with a girl friend in an old brick building on Houston street near Carmine avenue.

had kept dark the fact that she had won a beauty contest. That, she felt, wouldn't appeal to producers who wanted ingenues. Her vaudeville experience with her parents, she found also, did not help much. So she went after the chorus job.

The dance director was Sammy Lee—he's out here in Hollywood at one of the studios now—and when the girls were divided into the "Yes" and "No" groups, I saw I was eliminated. "What a let-down," I thought. "I can't even make a chorus." But I desperately needed the job. So I hid behind a flat and when the girls were dismissed and Lee started up the aisle in the auditorium I ran after him.

"I'm a little stiff now and out of practice, but I can get into shape," I pleaded.

"Sorry," he said, and kept on walking.

"I'm one of the vaudeville Blondells," I insisted.

"Sorry, little girl," he answered, still going.

"I had saved my last shot.

I should, I believed, be useful in connection with a chorus job.

"But— but I am Miss Dallas!" I told him.

"He turned around as he reached the foyer door.

"I don't give a damn if you're Miss Subway Station," he snapped. "I'm sorry! Out we went.

"It was a blow. Some other girls might have become terribly blue and despondent. But, after a minute or two, I just sat down and laughed.

I felt that Fate had decided I was fitted for something better than a chorus. Surely enough, as I was to find out later, this reverse was the finest thing that could have happened to me."

MISS BLONDELL says that prior to meeting James Cagney so luckily she had had any number of varying roles on Broadway, good and bad, and some excellent road experience. But there were numerous times when she was up against it. It is no uncertain form.

One night, blue and discouraged, she went into a hotel and used almost her last cent for a stamp in order to apply for a job. She was discouraged and forlorn, and a young fellow, standing at the desk, smiled at her encouragingly.

Later, here in Hollywood, after having been in a number of pictures, she again got the blues in spite of her innate optimism. She got them, in fact, when trying on gowns for a test part in which two famous actresses of the screen were also after the role. Right then, to her surprise and almost superstition, joy in an omen-like event, the same pleasant-looking chap who had smiled at her in New York, walked into the test set. Again he gave her a smile; again she felt lifted.

"You can believe it or not," explains Joan, her eyes shining with that touch of sentiment which tinges and tones her jesting, "but it was nobody else but George Barnes. He was the photographer."

That's how the romance began between Joan and George. That's how come she off stage, is Mrs. Barnes. She's the mama. George, the papa, to the aforementioned Blondell infant.

and you feel that ice would help, rub the face and chin and throat with mineral oil or almond oil, and wipe off lightly. Then use the ice. You get the exhilaration of cold then, without having the skin dried by the treatment.

Just One Question

Did you ever ask yourself: Are all these ornaments, dishes and what-nots on the tops of my various pieces of furniture worth handling and dusting a couple of hundred times a year? That might be just the query that would make you come to the decision of getting rid of them.

The Quick Way

The speediest way to put a recipe together is to read it carefully first, then get everything needed in the recipe.

Then get to work and do as directed. You waste no time washing your hands between getting the articles out of a clean cupboard or cabinet.

Candied Sweet Potatoes

One-half teaspoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoon paprika.

Two-thirds cup dark brown sugar.

Two tablespoons pineapple juice.

One-half cup water.

Four tablespoons butter.

Arrange potatoes in shallow pan.

Sprinkle with salt, paprika and sugar. Add rest of ingredients.

Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Turn to allow even browning.

Swiss Steak

Buy a two-pound round steak.

Lay it on a board and pound flour into both sides of it. Seal the steak in hot fat in a double roaster, but on top of the stove. Sprinkle with salt, paprika and add two cups tomato pulp and water to cover.

Place small white onions around the steak and mushrooms on top. Cover and transfer to the oven, where it should be baked about two hours. Serve on a large heated platter.

Instead of more leaders, maybe the world just needs more time to relax between leaders.

Trolls who bruise easily can't deceive so easily.

Shot the buttons off Pa's vest.

Ma cried, "That's what I call class."

Now try it with a looking glass."

"G MEN" at the Shubert, is demonstrating either that machine-gun play is still interesting to move-goers or that the public is interested in dramatic portrayal of the episodes in the Government's 1934 war on crime. For "G-Men" also is being held over. James Cagney is the star, with Ann Dvorak and Margaret Lindsay in the cast.

"G-Men" depicts Cagney's career as he joins the Federal service to act against desperadoes.

A second feature is offered in "McFadden's Flats," with Walter C. Kelly, vaudeville and stage favorite, making his motion picture debut.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

My dear Mrs. Carr:
SOUT two years ago, I lost my health and was advised by the doctor to go to the country. I am married and have a son who will finish high school this year. He and my wife are living with their people and she works every day. I have recovered my health and am working here in the city again. My wife has a good profession and so have I. But she has a bitter memory of me on account of my having lost my health. She has the furniture and the automobile in the country with her. I send her money every month. She is really the only person I could ever care for and I am a lover of home life. We have been married 20 years.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
TOMORROW I very sorrowfully found that my little dog had been poisoned or struck by a car. He was the only pet that I owned and I am a person who must have something in the way of a dog to pet and coddle. I wonder if

Dear Mrs. Carr:
HAVING been out of the city for some time, I am not well-adapted to the proper place to wear men's white oxfords and on what occasion black shoes would be the proper thing?

It is proper to wear, in the evening, white shoes with a dark blue suit. When is the white oxford season?

FROSTER.

White oxfords or black and white may be worn as soon as the weather admits of summer suits. Linen and white flannels. The black and white are worn sometimes with the dark blue flannel suits. White oxfords go with white linen suits or white trousers and blue or brown flannel coats.

Black shoes with dark suits, brown or black with brown suits.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
A spectator sports dress; that is, made of light pastel silks or linen or the cottons or a medium length frock would be the style with which to wear these gowns. They are not appropriate for chiffon or for an angle length skirt.

There are good commercial beaches. But you might try juvenile water which you can buy at any drug store. They will tell you how to use it, but in case they should forget to warn you not to leave the garment in too long and so rot the cloth, use it several times and then all the color is gone. You'll need about a tablespoonful to a bowl of water, leave it about an hour and rinse. Do this again after it dries until the color leaves the cloth.

Cotton's No Administration Carnival

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

MEMPHIS.—This town has grabbed all the holidays in the year and squeezed them into one week.

They call it the Cotton Carnival and Cotton Is King.

The old Mississippi flows by the front door.

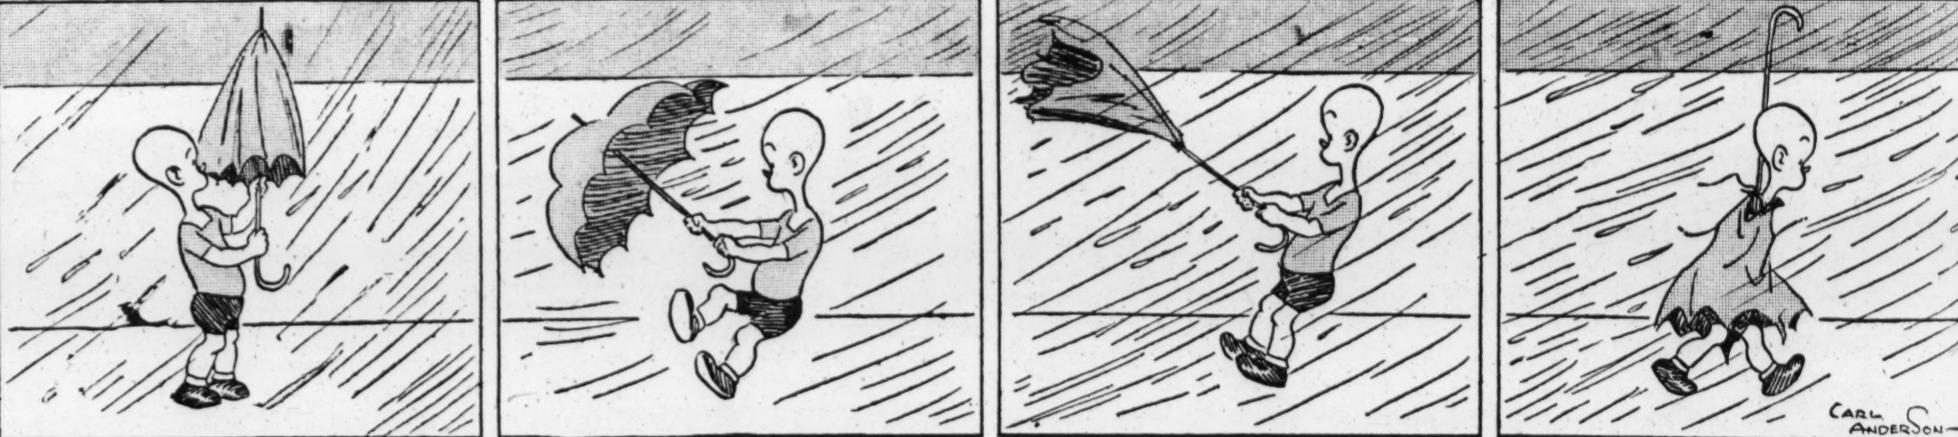

Five hundred thousand visitors are in town.

Met Roark Bradford, the fellow who wrote the show called "Green Pastures." He told us the South grows and manufactures everything made out of cotton including the whiskers for Santa Claus.

But, that leads us to politics and changes the subject.
